Assembly Begins Debate on Budget; Ives Sees 'Danger'

GOP Floor Leader Says
Constitutionality Is Not Real Issue; Lyons Opens Fire

Lehman's Stand

Governor Renews Attack, but Says He'll Try to Keep in Bounds

Albany, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—Final debate on a Republican "economy" budget plan began in New York's Assembly today with GOP Floor Leader Irving M. Ives shouting "if there is any danger in this state right now it comes from the government."

Ives made the statement in denying Democratic Leader Irwin Steingut's plea for postponement of final vote.

"The question is," he maintained, "whether a legislative check on the governor's budget no longer exists—whether the state's Democratic form of government can still function."

"The question of constitutionality of our financial program is not, the principal issue at all."

"Look at Germany, read of the rise of Hitler. It is the story of government unable to function. Is there any danger in this state right now it comes from the government."

Lyons Takes Issue
Terming the Republican plan a "death blow to farming and small business," Democratic Assemblyman James G. Lyons, Sullivan county, opened Democratic fire with an assertion that a budget that "destroys capital and endangers the health and welfare of the state is not economy but disaster."

He reminded lawmakers of "chaotic" conditions in the state's two-billion dollar dairy industry and said the proposed $30,000,000 slash of Governor Lehman's $415,000,000 budget "would cripple not only the agriculture department but also the division of milk control by reducing the services they render the farmer."

Assemblyman A. L. Parsons, Schoharie county Republican, decried the cost of state unemployment relief. He said "millions of people are on relief. They say 'what do we care, the government pays for this.' If we take that $85,000,000 (for relief) out of the budget (Lehman's estimate) we won't have any trouble."

Lehman's Assertion
Democratic Governor Lehman renewed today his assertion that a Republican $30,000,000 budget cut slated for passage today is unconstitutional, but said his administration would attempt to "stay within appropriations."

Previously Democratic spokesmen, strongly opposing the cut in Lehman's $415,000,000 budget proposal, voiced belief that legality of the Republican fiscal program must be determined in the courts.

"The governor and the heads of the departments have no alternative other than to carry out the orders of the legislature," the chief executive said in a special message to the lawmakers.

"I wish to serve notice, however, that I cannot and will not be responsible for the results of the reductions in the appropriations which affect the safety, the health and well-being of the people of the state," he said.

"The responsibility will rest completely upon those who are making the unsound and unwise reductions contained in the Republican budget."

The governor issued his statement as assemblymen opened debate preparatory to predicted final passage of the majority party's reduced spending program.

Its constitutionality has been questioned by Democrats because of the Republican "lump sum" appropriation proposals which would replace the governor's itemized budget.

The governor asserted his recommended $120,000,000 appropriations to state departments "was less than last year" after he had slashed them by $140,000,000.

To Give Show

Saturday morning some 80 or 90 girls from the 4-H clubs of Ulster county will gather at the Ulster Bureau office to take part in demonstrations. Edmund Bower, 4-H agent, said that there would be 20 demonstrations. They are preliminary to district demonstrations to be held at New York city on May 8.

Pastor Resigns

The Rev. C. V. W. Bedford, pastor of the Bloomingdale Reformed church at Bloomingdale, closed his work there on June 4. Mr. Bedford went to the church 14 years ago.

A Queen Surveys Her Domain

Before being crowned Queen Shenandoah XVI of the annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival at Winchester, Va., Miss Genevieve Garner of Amarillo, Tex., granddaughter of Vice-President and Mrs. John N. Garner, toured the apple orchards and is shown, scepter in hand, framed in a pretty setting with the blossoms in full bloom.

Board Is Expected To Name Successor To Bart Van Ingen

Five Candidates Remain on List to Be Considered by School Group; All Have Been Seen

In all probability a superintendent of schools to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of B. C. Van Ingen will be selected at the monthly meeting of the Board of Education this evening. Mr. Van Ingen's resignation effective August 1 has been accepted and Mr. Van Ingen is to retire from active school work.

Delaying the acceptance of the resignation for a month in order to allow Mr. Van Ingen time to reconsider, the resignation was later accepted with regret and the board appointed a committee to seek a successor.

Many Interviews
Many candidates have been interviewed by the committee and the eligible list was pared to five candidates whose names went before the Board of Education at a special meeting last week. Several special meetings have been held and numerous candidates have been interviewed. At the special meeting last Friday the five men whose names will probably come before the board for final action this evening, were interviewed by the entire board.

It is expected that from these five men a selection will be made this evening.

Mr. Van Ingen's resignation will become effective on August 1 if a successor is selected, allowing time for the new superintendent to become acquainted with local conditions and problems and set up his system for the opening of schools in the fall.

In submitting his resignation Mr. Van Ingen agreed that if no suitable successor could be found by August 1 he would continue in office until a successor was named.

In the consideration of a new superintendent the Board of Education considered only men who have had prior experience as superintendents or as assistant superintendents of schools.

Thirteen persons already are charged with homicide. Nine are under arrest and warrants have been issued for the other four, including three accused as ring-leaders—a New York convict, a man described by Police Captain James A. Kelly as a "faith healer," and an alluring widow with a "kiss of death." The possible scope of the ring's activities widened with disclosure that the plotters may have used violence, in addition to poison. This disclosure prompted start of an investigation of every unexplained death by violence which has occurred within the last five years among nationality groups in which the ring was known to operate.

"We had thought there were somewhere between 30 and 70 deaths directly traceable to the poisoners," one investigator said.

Weeks ago a judge at the trial of one of the ring's convicted members declared evidence indicated there were "scores and scores."

Simon Says Germany Inspires New Policy

British Chancellor Insists
His Nation's Character Has Not Altered; Naval Officers Undisturbed

London, April 28 (AP)—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, declared today it was "the action of Germany" which was responsible for Britain's new foreign policy.

Speaking shortly after Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag speech, Sir John insisted that British character had not altered.

"The thing that has changed British policy and changed it with unanimous approval," he said, "is the action of Germany."

"It is no longer true that German policy is limited to bringing Germans within the reich. Recent actions go further than that, and if these actions portend an effort at domination over the rest of Europe it is an effort which Britain must oppose."

Naval Officers Unsurprised
Sir John spoke as British naval quarters, analyzing Hitler's cancellation of the Anglo-German naval pact which provided that the German fleet be inferior permanently in tonnage to the British fleet, said they were "unsurprised and undisturbed" by the move.

The chancellor laid the responsibility for Britain's new policy to German action after he had said: "The German people would do well to ask themselves what is the explanation of so surprising a change. Mr. Chamberlain is still the man of peace."

The chancellor was addressing the Primrose League, a conservative organization founded by Disraeli.

Britain always has contended that the naval pact could not be repudiated by one nation.

The accord, signed June 18, 1935, limited Germany's fleet to 35 per cent of the total tonnage of Britain's navy and provided for limitation of armaments.

Germany in December, 1938, took advantage of her rights under the treaty and announced her intention to build up her submarine force until it equaled Britain's. She also increased the armaments on 20,000-ton cruisers.

Naval experts in London believe Hitler summed up Germany's naval relations with Britain in another Reichstag speech on May 21, 1938 when he said: "The German navy has not a single ship which is not a masterpiece of modern naval engineering."

"Germany has not," he said, "the means to participate in any new naval rivalry."

No Immediate Comment

On Hitler's speech as a whole, foreign office spokesmen refused immediately to comment.

An English translation was being studied carefully by Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday evening at No. 10 Downing Street, by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax in the foreign office, and by heads of the western department of the foreign office.

Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday received an overview of the vote of 376 to 145 in the House of Commons for a motion to introduce his plan of compulsory military training for British youths of 20 years of age. Earlier the House of Lords approved the conscription principle.

It was probable a bill drawing 200,000 young recruits into the British army would be published Monday and rushed through the House next week.

Fathery Carey Is Chaplain

The Rev. Austin V. Carey, a former assistant pastor of the Church of St. Christopher, Grant City, S. I., has been appointed chaplain at the Benedictine Hospital to succeed the Rev. William Torrey, who has been assigned to another post.

Washington, April 28 (AP)—The position of the treasury April 26: Receipts, $12,438,954.28; expenditures, $28,320,452.56; net balance, $3,051,100,815.94, including $2,387,873,517.01 working balance; customs receipts for the month, $26,219,337.89. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $4,624,120,119.15; expenditures, $7,482,958,214.70, including $2,561,144,718.56 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $2,858,838,095.55; gross debt, $40,051,484,292.73, an increase of $8,815,941.43 above the previous day; gold assets, $15,713,787,634.36.

First Reaction

Paris, April 28 (AP)—First French reaction to the Hitler speech in circles close to the foreign office was, in the words of one, that it "closely resembles an anti-climax." Diplomatic sources, however, said they considered that Hitler might have been preparing the way for a sudden stroke against Poland.

Elissa Landi Buys Peter Sharp Farm On Kingston Flats

Former Movie Actress and Father Will Reside at Premises Upon Which Is Stone Dwelling

Elissa Landi, former moving picture actress, authoress and lecturer, and her father, Count Charles Landi, have purchased one of the desirable old Ulster county farm and residence properties near Kingston and will make it their home.

The location they have selected is the former Peter Sharp farm, on Route 28, about a mile from Kingston, since 1930 owned and occupied by Charles Williams and family. The farm, which lies just at the end of the Kingston flats near the John Walker property, extends from the Lopus creek across the highway north to the mountains. It embraces 123 acres, about half of which is alluvial soil, with a considerable tract of woodland.

Old Stone Dwelling

A feature is the old stone dwelling house which probably dates back at least to the early 1800's and perhaps earlier. In addition there are two tenant houses, with barns and other outbuildings. Until its purchase by Mr. Williams it was for a long time of years owned by the Sharp family.

Miss Landi and her father selected this site for their home after inspecting properties in a number of eastern states and along the Hudson river. Influencing the choice, in addition to the picturesque location of the old home property, were the many advantages offered by Ulster county, cultural, scenic and historic and doubtless its nearness and accessibility to Kingston and to the Woodstock art colony with all that it has to offer.

Take Possession May 1

The new owners will take possession May 1. Extensive alterations will be made to the buildings and the old stone dwelling house will be restored and modernized, preserving the original lines and characteristics, however. It is understood that one of the activities of the new owners will be the building up of a model dairy, but conducted as a "hobby," rather than for commercial purposes, under the direction of Count Landi.

The sale of the property was made through the real estate agency of Mann & Gross, 277 Fair street, Kingston. Former City Judge B. A. Culliton represented the purchasers' attorney in the negotiations.

Depends on Washington

Hyde Park, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt depended on state department and press resumes rather than the radio to bring him information today of Chancellor Hitler's Reichstag address replying to his appeal to Germany for a non-aggression pledge. Officials said he retired early last night and planned to sleep through the fuhrer's momentous address.

Varied Reaction Of Congressmen To Hitler Speech

Washington, April 28 (AP)—Senator Borah (R., Idaho), dean of the Senate's foreign relations committee, said today "it seems to me" that Hitler regarded his speech in the reichstag "as ending the matter of further world peace discussions."

First congressional reaction indicated a belief the German fuhrer had not closed the door to a peaceful settlement of European controversies.

At the state department, Secretary Hull studied press dispatches on the speech but, since the department had announced previously it would not regard it as a formal reply to President Roosevelt's written peace proposals, there was no comment.

Some Disappointed

Some legislators expressed frank disappointment at the tone of Hitler's answer to the plea for ten years of peace in Europe. Others called the speech "blustering" and "bluffing."

"It appears to me," said Senator Connally (D., Tex.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "that the President's intervention has borne some fruit. Hitler's answer has given some encouragement to those who hope for peaceful settlement of Europe's difficulties."

On the other hand, Rep. Bloom (D., N. Y.), acting chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said that Hitler "in one breath says he wants peace for the whole world and in the next breath makes a virtual ultimatum to Poland."

Rep. Carlson (R., Kas.): "Our problem is at home and we should try to straighten out our economic situation and not try to police the world."

Rep. Dingell (D., Mich.): "I regarded Hitler's speech as a blustering, magnanimous speech. I am disappointed."

Rep. Lea (D., Calif.): "The Hitler broadcast has somewhat clarified the situation and, I think we may hope, has lessened the danger of war. It will leave America skeptical, however, for there was too much of the idea 'give us what we want and have no fear.'"

Sees Continued Program

Rep. Arnold (D., Ill.): "There can be no doubt of Hitler's intention to continue his program until he achieves his aims."

Rep. Fish (R., N. Y.): "I do not believe there will be a European war this year unless the hate and war-crazy administration at Washington goads the British and

Mayors' Conference Foresees Ruin for City

The State Conference of Mayors called today for legislative approval of a pending bill placing local pension funds on an actuarial basis, an Associated Press dispatch from Albany says.

Predicting "ruin" for the borrowing power of several municipalities unless the bill is passed, the conference said it would empower cities, towns and villages to issue bonds, exempted from their debt limit, to pay pension fund liabilities.

"Without such power," the conference told the legislature in a memorandum, "many of these cities and villages will have their borrowing power either completely wiped out or very seriously impaired."

It listed Amsterdam, Buffalo, New York city, Fulton, Syracuse and Troy as municipalities where the borrowing power will be "wiped out" and Albany, Binghamton, Kingston, Mt. Vernon, New Rochelle and Schenectady as those where it will be "greatly reduced."

Cartwright Proposes Special Agency for Trans-U. S. Roads

Washington, April 28 (AP)—Chairman Cartwright (D., Okla.), of the House Roads Committee proposed today creation of a new agency to begin a long-range national highway program, aimed at eventual construction of stream-lined transcontinental highways.

Cartwright said his plan grew out of a bureau of roads survey which President Roosevelt sent to congress yesterday. The President said the report emphasized the need of new highways "to meet the requirements of the national defense and the needs of a growing peacetime traffic of longer range."

Under Cartwright's proposal a

by Calling Up of Troops; Says Nation Rejected Offer for Corridor

Berlin, April 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today announced denunciation of Germany's naval treaty with England and her ten-year non-aggression pact with Poland in a two-hour 17-minute oration in which he replied point by point to President Roosevelt's April 15 peace appeal.

Addressing the Reichstag, the German Fuehrer offered assurances of "the kind desired by Mr. Roosevelt on the condition of absolute reciprocity provided that the state wishes it and itself addresses to Germany a request for such assurance"—of non-aggression.

Specifically he gave "an assurance regarding those territories which would after all give him (Roosevelt) the most cause for apprehension, namely the United States itself and the other states of the American continent."

Police Board Fines Entrott Five Days' Pay; Back at Post

Charge Made by Sergeant Upheld at Hearing; Also Loses Pay for 2 Days
Under Suspension

Policeman Winfield Entrott was fined five days' pay, and docked the two days that he had been under suspension from active duty, by the Board of Police Commissioners when he pleaded guilty Thursday evening to charges of conduct unbecoming to an officer, which had been lodged against him by Sergeant James P. Martin.

Officer Entrott was suspended from active duty on April 25. Last night the police board held a special meeting to hear the charges that had been lodged against him. The charge arose from alleged misconduct in police headquarters in the city hall.

Restored to Duty
After imposing the fine the board restored Officer Entrott to active duty.

In addition to taking action on the charges against Entrott, the board officially accepted the 2-way radio set that has been installed in one of the police radio cars. The three other cars will be similarly equipped, and the board will also purchase a replacement set in case anything went wrong with the other sets, so that there would be no delay in making repairs.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood reported that the cost of installing a traffic light at Broadway and O'Reilly street, would be $425 instead of $500 and the board directed him to revise the resolution forwarded to the council asking that $500 be transferred from the police fund to the board of public works fund to pay for the cost of installation.

Reply to France

To France Hitler repeated his guarantee to respect Alsace-Lorraine as French territory. The territory was won by Germany in the war of 1870 and regained by France in the World War.

Answering President Roosevelt's non-aggression proposals he declared himself willing to give to other nations assurances of non-aggression on the condition of absolute reciprocity and provided the states in question desired it.

"The German government is prepared to give to each of the states named (by Roosevelt) an assurance of the kind desired by Mr. Roosevelt on the condition of absolute reciprocity provided that the state wishes it and itself addresses to Germany a request for such an assurance together with appropriate proposals," the German fuhrer declared.

"As for duration of these agreements Germany is willing to make them for each individual state in accordance with the wishes of that state."

Hitler drove in an open car through the city streets, and his motorcade was greeted by a large crowd of people. He was accompanied by several high-ranking officials and military personnel.

Assembly Begins Debate on Budget; Ives Sees 'Danger'

GOP Floor Leader Says Constitutionality Is Not Real Issue; Lyons Opens Fire

Lehman's Stand

Governor Renews Attack, but Says He'll Try to Keep in Bounds

Albany, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—Final debate on a Republican "economy" budget plan began in New York's Assembly today with GOP Floor Leader Irving M. Ives shouting "if there is any danger in this state right now it comes from the government."

Ives made the statement in denying Democratic Leader Irwin Steingut's plea for postponement of final vote.

"The question is," he maintained, "whether a legislative check on the governor's budget no longer exists—whether the so-called Democratic form of government can still function."

"The question of constitutionality of our financial program is not the principal issue at all."

"Look at Germany, read of the rise of Hitler. It is the story of government unable to function. There is any danger in this state right now it comes from the government."

Lyons Takes Issue

Terming the Republican plan a "death blow to farming and small business," Democratic Assemblyman James G. Lyons, Sullivan county, opened Democratic fire with an assertion that a budget that "destroys capital and endangers the health and welfare of the state is not economy but disaster."

He reminded lawmakers of "catastrophic" conditions in the state's two-billion dollar dairy industry and said the proposed $30,000,000 slash of Governor Lehman's $415,000,000 budget "would cripple not only the agriculture department but also the division of milk control by reducing the services they render the farmer."

Assemblyman A. L. Parsons, Schoharie county Republican, decried the cost of state unemployment relief. He said "millions of people are on relief. They say 'what do we care, the government pays for this.' If we take that $85,000,000 (for relief) out of the budget, (Lehman's estimate) we won't have any trouble."

Lehman's Assertion

Democratic Governor Lehman retorted today his assertion that a Republican $30,000,000 budget cut slated for passage today is unconstitutional, but said his administration would attempt to "stay within appropriations."

Previously Democratic spokesmen, strongly opposing the cut in Lehman's $415,000,000 budget proposal, voiced belief that legality of the Republican fiscal program must be determined in the courts.

"The responsibility will rest completely upon those who are making the unsound and unwise reductions contained in the Republican budget."

The governor issued his statement as assemblymen opened debate preparatory to predicted final passage of the majority party's reduced spending program.

Its constitutionality has been questioned by Democrats because of the Republican "lump sum" appropriation proposals which would replace the governor's itemized budget.

Officials said he retired early last night and planned to sleep through the fuhrer's momentous address.

Varied Reaction Of Congressmen To Hitler Speech

Washington, April 28 (AP)—Senator Borah (R., Idaho), dean of the Senate's foreign relations committee, said today "it seems to me" that Hitler regarded his speech in the reichstag "as ending the matter of further world peace discussions."

First congressional reaction indicated a belief the German fuhrer had not closed the door to a peaceful settlement of European controversies.

At the state department, Secretary Hull studied press dispatches on the speech but, since the department had announced previously it would not regard it as a formal reply to President Roosevelt's written peace proposals, there was no comment.

Some Disappointed

Some legislators expressed frank disappointment at the tone of Hitler's answer to the plea for ten years of peace in Europe. Others called the speech "blustering" and "bluffing."

"It appears to me," said Senator Connally (D., Tex.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "that the President's intervention has borne some fruit. Hitler's answer has given some encouragement to those who hope for peaceful settlement of Europe's difficulties."

On the other hand, Rep. Bloom (D., N. Y.), acting chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said that Hitler "in one breath, says he wants peace for the whole world and in the next breath makes a virtual ultimatum to Poland."

Rep. Carlson (R., Kas.): "Our problem is at home and we should try to straighten out our economic situation and not try to police the world."

Rep. Dingell (D., Mich.): "I regarded Hitler's speech as a blustering, pugnacious speech. I am disappointed."

Rep. Lea (D., Calif.): "The Hitler broadcast has somewhat clarified the situation and, I think we may hope, has lessened the danger of war. It will leave America skeptical, however, for there was too much of the idea 'give us what we want and have no fear.'"

Sees Continued Program

Rep. Arnold (D., Ill.): "There can be doubt of Hitler's intention to continue his program until he achieves his aims."

Rep. Fish (R., N. Y.): "I do not believe there will be a European war this year unless the hate and war-crash administration at Washington goads the British and

Fuehrer Rejects Ten-Year Treaty Affecting Poland

BLAMES 'BRITISH WAR MONGERS'

Poland Is Cited as Having Caused Split by Calling Up of Troops; Says Nation Rejected Offer for Corridor

Berlin, April 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today announced denunciation of Germany's naval treaty with England and her ten-year non-aggression pact with Poland in a two-hour 17-minute oration in which he replied point by point to President Roosevelt's April 15 peace appeal.

Addressing the Reichstag, the German fuhrer offered assurances of "the kind desired by Mr. Roosevelt on the condition of absolute reciprocity provided that the state wishes it and itself addresses to Germany a request for such assurance"—of non-aggression.

Specifically he gave "an assurance regarding those territories which would after all give him (Roosevelt) the most cause for apprehension, namely the United States itself and the other states of the American continent."

Police Board Fines Entrott Five Days' Pay; Back at Post Charge Made by Sergeant Upheld at Hearing; Also Loses Pay for 2 Days Under Suspension

Policeman Winfield Entrott was fined five days' pay, and docked the two days that he had been under suspension from active duty, by the Board of Police Commissioners when he pleaded guilty Thursday evening to charges of conduct unbecoming to an officer, which had been lodged against him by Sergeant James P. Martin.

Officer Entrott was suspended from active duty on April 23. Last night the police board held a special meeting to hear the charges that had been lodged against him. The charge arose from alleged misconduct in police headquarters in the city hall.

Restored to Duty

After imposing the fine the board restored Officer Entrott to active duty.

In addition to taking action on the charges against Entrott, the board officially accepted the 2-way radio set that has been installed in one of the police radio cars. The three other cars will be similarly equipped, and the board will also purchase a replacement set in case anything went wrong with the other sets, so that there would be no delay in making repairs.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood reported that the cost of installing a traffic light at Broadway and O'Reilly street, would be $425 instead of $500 and the board directed him to revise the resolution forwarded to the council asking that $500 be transferred from the police fund to the board of public works fund to pay for the cost of installation.

Reply to France

To France Hitler repeated his guarantee to respect Alsace-Lorraine as French territory. "The territory was won by Germany in the war of 1870 and regained by France in the World War."

Answering President Roosevelt's non-aggression proposals he declared himself willing to give to other nations assurances of non-aggression on the condition of absolute reciprocity, and provided the states in question desired it.

"The German government is prepared to give to each of the states named (by Roosevelt) an assurance of the kind desired by Mr. Roosevelt on the condition of absolute reciprocity provided that the state wishes it and itself addresses to Germany a request for such an assurance together with appropriate proposals," the German fuhrer declared.

"As for duration of these agreements Germany is willing to make terms with each individual state in accordance with the wishes of that state."

Hitler drove in an open car through cold, wet streets in a session to answer questions.

Cartwright Proposes Special Agency for Trans-U. S. Roads

Washington, April 28 (AP)—Chairman Cartwright (D., Okla.), of the House Roads Committee, proposed today creation of a new agency to begin a long-range national highway program, aimed at eventual construction of streamlined transcontinental highways.

Cartwright said his plan grew out of a bureau of roads survey which President Roosevelt sent to congress yesterday. The President said the report emphasized the need of new highways "to meet the requirements of the national defense and the needs of a growing peacetime traffic of longer range."

Under Cartwright's proposal a

federal roads authority could acquire rights-of-way and establish new through routes, as well as eliminate existing highway "bottlenecks" and coordinate traffic in congested areas.

"It's too big a problem for the individual states to handle," Cartwright said. "My bill would provide for an authority which would have the same power of operation as the TVA to proceed, under the right of eminent domain, with a national program."

The bureau's report opposed immediate construction of six transcontinental, superhighway roads suggested by several House members. It said such roads would not be economically feasible or adequate to meet traffic needs.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Spooky?

Morganton, N. C.—Two little girls, picking wild flowers, peeked into a gloomy culvert and I started away in fright.
They told Policeman Roy Morrison they saw a "spooky-looking thing."
Morrison investigated and found the "spirits" to be two pillow cases—enclosing 13 pints and 20 half pints of liquor.

Little Helper

Augusta, Kas.—That new electric fence Ote Robinson hoped would keep his stock at home will be completed later.
Robinson, not mechanically inclined, followed instructions to the letter up to page four. Then he was called away.
When he returned he found a calf had chewed up the rules.

Life Begins at 70

Omaha, Neb.—Charles A. Butterfield's wife, Gertrude, complained in a petition for divorce that he was old fashioned because he wanted to stay home nights instead of going to bridge and pin-ochle parties.
They were married three years ago. Butterfield is 82; his wife 70.

Football Eggs

Le Mars, Ia.—Now comes the streamlined egg.
Mrs. Oscar Weidenfeller reported that one of her white leg-horns had been laying, with exceptional regularity, eggs that are long, slender and pointed at both ends.

GRANGE NEWS

Asbury Grange

The regular meeting of the Asbury Grange was held at the Grange hall Monday evening with Clarence Finger, master, presiding. Among matters to come to the notice of the members was the visitation meeting to Milton May 15.

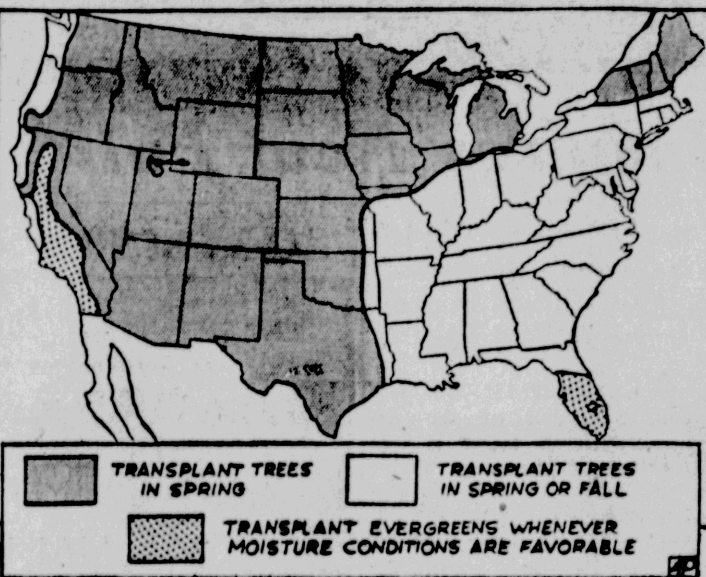

On May 8 Stone Ridge and Hurley Granges will visit Asbury. Plans for a float to be entered in the parade at the Apple Blossom Festival on May 6 at 1:30 were made and Sister Relyea will act as chairman with Sister Hoff assisting.

A short lecturer's program arranged by Louise Hoff was enjoyed, followed by refreshments.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

If Trees Are To Be Moved,
Spring's The Time To Do It

This map shows when trees can best be transplanted in various sections of the country. In the lightly stippled area, leafy trees should be transplanted as soon as possible after they become dormant. Evergreens can be moved at any season during which there is sufficient moisture in the ground.

(By The AP Feature Service)
If you want to move your trees—or plant new ones to fit into the lawn arrangement—do it now. Spring is the best time for the job in most of the country.

And with a little planning and transplanting you can get that informal "just-happened" effect and at the same time make the trees serve several purposes. They can break the wind against winter gales and snows—and give that comfortable shady look in the summer. Framing your house, they give graceful architectural lines. But there are a lot of tricks to transplanting, whether your trees come from the nursery or merely are being moved from one place to another on the lawn.

Spring's Usually Best

The season of the year is important—and spring is the best time in the colder parts of the central United States and as far south as Texas. In the east fall transplanting is possible and, on the west coast autumn is preferred since it gives the roots a chance to build up before the dry spell. Leafy trees are usually moved before spring growth starts or after growth ripens in the fall. Evergreens can be moved in the spring, starting just after the earliest leafy plants begin to come out and on until the latest plants are well started. Another recommended time comes in late summer or early fall when the rains begin and before freezing weather.

It's a good idea to have the new spot picked and a hole dug. Then the tree can be plunked into position without undue root exposure. There should be room enough to stretch the roots out and depth enough to allow two or three inches of rich soil.

Prepare for Transplanting

Experts advise that long roots on a tree which has grown on your lawn for several years should be cut off this spring if you plan transplanting. That can be done by cutting a circle around it with a spade. This encourages growth of short feeder roots, which should be helped along during the summer with fertilizer and a mulch on top of the ground. Then the tree will be ready to transplant late next fall or the following spring.

Remember that transplanted trees need special care. Evergreens require a daily dose of water in dry climates, and the tops should be sprayed several times a day to reduce transpiration from the foliage.

To water the roots, pour a little at the trunk, let it soak away, and pour on some more until it works down.

Schoonmaker Asks Law Be Returned

Reinstatement of the Federal-state bargaining law governing the marketing of milk was urged by John L. Schoonmaker of Accord, chairman of the Ulster County Dairyman's Producers Committee, in an address before the Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The demoralized market conditions in New York city at the present time he said was due to the invalidation of the federal-state bargaining law which was but recently held unconstitutional by Judge Cooper and he urged that amendments be made to comply with the suggestions of Judge Cooper in order that the bargaining law might again become effective.

Only through co-operation among producers and the benefits of collective bargaining with dealers could the farmer be assured of a living wage for his milk, an industry which is number one among the industries of Ulster county.

Mr. Schoonmaker cited the 20-year battle which dairymen have waged for better prices for milk. With the coming of the federal-state law which permitted co-operatives to bargain with the Rogers-Allen act, producers were able through collective bargaining to get a fair return for their milk. In July, 1937, when the law became effective milk prices from metropolitan dealers advanced with fluid milk bringing upwards of $1.60 per hundred. Then came the invalidation of the law and prices tumbled until the present price is about $1 and there is a promise of a drop to 80 cents during the high production periods. Since Judge Cooper's decision in February the markets of New York have become demoralized and milk is retailing in New York at far below production costs.

Mr. Schoonmaker urged that local people get behind the movement of the dairymen and ask that the amendments pending be adopted as the bargaining law may again become effective with certain changes as suggested by Judge Cooper in his decision.

The recent attempt to get 90 per cent of the men to sign up voluntarily under the same conditions as imposed by the defunct law he said had met with a response close to 90 per cent. Of the 544 creameries in the Metropolitan area 486 signed and he said he believed the dairy farmers were more united now than ever before and he predicted this co-operation would eventually win for the producers a fair return for their product.

Without co-operation by the producers and the resulting payment of a fair price for milk he said local dairymen could not continue. A good return for milk means prosperity in the county since the dairy business and its related industries is one of the biggest money producing crops of the county.

President Huben called attention of members to the Inter-Club meeting at Poughkeepsie on May 2. Golf in the afternoon and dinner at the Nelson House in the evening. An invitation was extended to attend the initiation of a new Kiwanis Club on May 3 at Castleton.

Kerhonkson Union School Activities

Kerhonkson, April 27.—This year, the Kerhonkson Union School has presented various phases of its activities at the regular Parent-Teacher Association meetings. In the final presentation of the year, the entire school will be open for inspection by parents and friends. This program is scheduled for Wednesday evening, May 3 at 7:30 o'clock. Boys and girls in the elementary grades and high school are busily preparing displays of the various projects and activities which they have conducted during the year. In addition to the room offerings, the boys of the freshman class will present an operetta, "The Pirate King," under the direction of Robert L. Dikovsky. The music is in charge of Daniel P. Rohn. All parents and friends are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to see what the school is doing for the boys and girls of the community.

The Kerhonkson Union School is providing citizenship and leadership training for a democracy. During the year, the students have directed club activities and have conducted all assemblies. The results of this training will probably be most apparent during the Moving-Up Day events which will be conducted on May 25. As in previous years, this will be a colorful outdoor event featuring songs, dramatic presentations, speeches and athletic contests. At the present time, the Student Council is busily planning these activities. The play directors are: Jean Miller, Helen Mikalonis, Herbert Popple, Beverly Hornbeck and Daniel Pannaccione. Those chosen to represent their class as speakers are: Carol Poord, Matthew Rauch, Marilyn DeWitt, Joseph Cohen and David Rothenberg. The various classes are selecting song leaders to guide them through the music competition. The grand marshal in charge of the day is Elma Benton. She will be assisted by Marjorie Lane, last year's grand marshal. Fire drills are stressed particularly this year. It has been found that the entire building can be emptied in less than a minute. After the pupils are outside the building, the roll is called for every class in order to make sure that no one has been left behind. Being prepared in case of fire is one of the most important considerations confronting school authorities.

Men's gym night, which has proved so successful this winter, is scheduled to close with the advent of Daylight Saving Time this week. In its place the group is planning to organize a twilight softball league. These games will be played on Tuesday evenings. Anyone may participate, but those who desire to do so are requested

Spooky?
Morganton, N. C.—Two little girls, picking wild flowers, peeked into a gloomy culvert and started away in fright.

Morrison investigated and found the "spirits" to be two pillow cases—enclosing 13 pints and 20 half pints of liquor.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

If Trees Are To Be Moved, Spring's The Time To Do It

This map shows when trees can best be transplanted in various sections of the country. In the lightly stippled area, leafy trees should be transplanted as soon as possible after they become dormant. Evergreens can be moved at any season during which there is sufficient moisture in the ground.

(By The AP Feature Service)
If you want to move your trees—or plant new ones to fit into the lawn arrangement—do it now. Spring is the best time for the job in most of the country.

And with a little planning and transplanting you can get that informal "just-happened" effect and at the same time make the trees serve several purposes.
They can break the wind against winter gales and snow—and give that comfortable shady look in the summer. Framing your house, they give graceful architectural lines.
But there are a lot of tricks to transplanting, whether your trees come from the nursery or merely are being moved from one place to another on the lawn.

Spring's Usually Best
The season of the year is important—and spring is the best time in the colder parts of the central United States and as far south as Texas. In the east fall transplanting is possible and on the west coast autumn is preferred since it gives the roots a chance to build up before the dry spell.
Leafy trees are usually moved before spring growth starts or after growth ripens in the fall. Evergreens can be moved in the spring, starting just after the earliest leafy plants begin to come out and on until the latest plants are well started. Another recommended time comes in late summer or early fall when the rains begin and before freezing weather.

It's a good idea to have the new spot picked and a hole dug. Then the tree can be plunked into position without undue root exposure. There should be room enough to stretch the roots out and depth enough to allow two or three inches of rich soil.

Prepare for Transplanting
Experts advise that long roots on a tree which has grown on your lawn for several years should be cut off this spring if you plan transplanting. That can be done by cutting a circle around it with a spade. This encourages growth of short feeder roots, which should be helped along during the summer with fertilizer and a mulch on top of the ground. Then the tree will be ready to transplant late next fall or the following spring.
Remember that transplanted trees need special care. Evergreens require a daily dose of water in dry climates, and the tops should be sprayed several times a day to reduce transpiration from the foliage.
To water the roots, pour a little at the trunk, let it soak away, and pour on some more until it works down.

INDUSTRIAL HORIZONS

A wonderful vista of industrial progress was opened by Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, in a recent survey. American inventiveness has not entered a decline, but is moving forward with amazing speed. On the basis of reports from American industrialists, he reported as already in production, or as proved feasible for human comfort and progress, hundreds of epochal inventions and improvements.

They include new methods of pre-fabricating homes; clothing made from coal and milk; shatterproof eyeglasses of plastics; better steel, engines, lamps, chemicals, roads, rubber goods, photographic films and so on.

He told of the prospects for airplanes flying blind with greater speed and in any weather; of two-way radio, static-free; of chemistry enabling farmers to make hay in the rain; of a one-man harvesting machine that cuts, separates, cleans and bins various crops in one operation, at the rate of one man-hour per acre; of underwear, knitted goods and fine hosiery derived from such natural raw materials as coal, air and water; of woven fabrics of unprecedented quality and durability, spun continuously from rayon yarns made of pulpwood; of glass that can be woven and tied in knots; new methods of packaging and preserving foods; new anesthetics, artificial sponge rubber and synthetic plastics; better and faster railroad trains; incomparably better and cheaper lighting; roads made by combining a new cement with natural soil; invisible glass, wood petrified to prevent wear, better explosive fuels, new roofing, and so on.

Obviously "peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." Incomparable victories have been won, and are being won today, in American laboratories and workshops. And we all benefit from them to some extent. But we might and should benefit far more.

It is human nature, not human intelligence, that is at fault. War and the fear of war, military and political and social, holds us back. If these obstacles could be overcome, we might have a new world in a decade or two.

NO LITERARY "BESTS"

The various committees picking out the nation's "best" literary works of 1938 have had a hard time. The Pulitzer awards will not be known until May, but in the meantime we have the results of a poll taken by the Saturday Review among "critics, reviewers and editors of America." Fifty-seven people from all parts of the country participated in the balloting. They were supposed to name four "bests," in the fields of biography, the novel, history and poetry. They named more than seventy-two different books.

Votes were scattered over so many authors and titles that only five votes chose the winner in history and second place was won by four. The biography winner, Carl Van Doren's "Benjamin Franklin," actually received a majority of the votes in its field, 46 out of 56. And Mrs. Rawlings captured 26 out of 54 votes for "The Yearling." In poetry, however, as in history, so many different books were named that first place was won by eight votes and two books tied for second with only four votes each.

Does this mean that the United States is so rich in first-rate literature these days that critics can't pick a single "best" in any field, or that standards are so confused that the votes don't mean anything? Posterity will have to answer that question.

IMMIGRANTS AND JOBS

The disinclination of free countries to accept refugees driven from the bossed countries is strongly criticised by Alfred Duff-Cooper, formerly head of the British navy. He holds that this attitude is based on ignorance.

The usual reason given for forbidding the entrance of refugees is that they will take the jobs of working people in lands where there is already too much unemployment. But Duff-Cooper calls attention to the statement made a few months ago by the British home secretary, that as a result of 11,000 refugees settling in England there were 15,000 British workers employed who otherwise would have been idle. Britain has always profited by immigration, he says, and needs it today more than for centuries, because of the current decline in population. While refugees are being barred for false reasons, he adds, hundreds of thousands of them are needed for military and civil purposes.

If this is really true of England, it must be true of many other countries. It may be that America, traditional refuge of desirable immigrants who were not wanted, or who lacked opportunity in their native lands, is making a mistake now in raising the immigration barriers so high.

There would have to be a more thorough discussion than we have yet had, however, to change the present restrictive policy. It would have to be proved that more immigrants would make more employment here, instead of more idleness.

THINKING AT NIGHT

"Do your heavy thinking at night," advises Dr. Alexander Randall of the University of Pennsylvania. "The brain works best in those lucid, peaceful moments just before you go to sleep."

Yes, many of us have noticed that. Lying comfortably in bed, in the dark, with the mind floating in empty space, it's remarkable what brilliant ideas a fellow can have. Problems often seem to clear up miraculously. A business man can think of a clever way to make a fortune. A writing man finds himself full of noble ideas and language. Half way between waking and dreaming, but not realizing it, the drowsy genius will say to himself: "Now I'll write this down the first thing when I get up in the morning," or "I'll do so and so the minute I get to the office."

But alas! Next morning the beautiful dreams are gone and the old brain-box is as dumb as ever.

TREATMENT OF ASTHMA, HAY FEVER

Every year, physicians interested in hay fever and asthma, await the report and findings of the Asthma Research Council of Great Britain. The regular London correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association reports that at the asthma clinic of St. Mary's Hospital, the work was principally on hay fever which is to be closely related to asthma and urticaria (hives.) It has been found that the pollen of any one of the English grasses serves to show whether or not the hay fever is due to grass pollen and a vaccine made from one grass will desensitize (stop the pollen from causing the symptoms) all hay fever.

Several cases were investigated in which there was some point of infection—teeth, tonsils, sinus, gall bladder—present, which complicated and added to the symptoms produced by the grass pollen. Where this infection was poisoning the system it was naturally a longer and more difficult process to desensitize the patient to the grass pollen.

It was found that emotional disturbances were a factor in causing asthmatic attacks, even hilarity accompanied by hearty laughter might start an attack of hay fever. Also an emotional attack may start an attack or the attack may set up an emotional disturbance or neurosis.

I have spoken before of the benefits received in asthma by the use of breathing exercises—principally blowing breath out as hard and as long as possible.

To be of use, these exercises must be properly taught and practiced conscientiously. The results obtained were as follows: In about 40 per cent of the cases the asthma either disappeared or became so slight as not to inconvenience the patient. In about 30 per cent the condition was much improved and there remained 30 per cent of failures. Of the failures half were due to not applying themselves properly to the learning of the exercises.

These patients, who were selected to show the value of the breathing exercises, carried on at their usual employment and did not avoid food, feathers, or dust to which they might be sensitive nor did they have vaccine treatment or operations on the nose. Any cure or improvement was thus entirely due to the breathing exercises.

A copy of the "Breathing Exercises for Asthma" may be obtained by sending twenty-five cents to The Asthma Research Council, King's College, Strand, London, W.C.2, England.

Allergy
 Sensitiveness to various foods or other substances is one of the commonest causes of asthma and hay fever. Send today for this useful booklet by Dr. Barton entitled "Allergy" (No. 106.) It tells how to find the offending substances and what to do about them. Send your request to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd street, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of service and mailing and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

The idea grew and gavel soon were being turned out by the dozen, many to fulfill requests from close friends of the former President.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

WALL STREET SUPERSTITIOUS

Babson Says Market Thinnest In History

New York City, April 28.—Arriving in New York, I find Wall Street ridden by superstitions—market charts, resistance points, "double bottoms," etc. These investment fads remind me of what happened in Florida just before I came North. Many of the country's newspapers carried the story. A dear old lady from Mississippi came to Florida and "made it rain." As the place where Miss Stote performed is in the next town to Babson Park, Florida, naturally I observed the situation with much interest.

The rain-maker impressed me as an honest and God-fearing woman. Apparently she earnestly believes in her theory. She "sat" with her umbrella by the lakeside until it did rain! As a result, a great number of people are sincerely convinced that she brought the rain. Now, in my humble opinion the Wall Street chartists with their "rain-making" theories about the stock-market are operating as did Miss Lillie Stote. Such stunts may seem to work at times, but when they do, they are coincidences. Here is the joker about chart-reading: By the time the signals have definitely shown that the move is a bull or bear market, the swing is often practically completed.

What is "thin market"? Yet, New York City has been in a furor recently about these chart theories. Surely, this is old stuff, but here is the explanation for all the excitement. Through the S.E.C. regulations and other developments, the market has been made thin. Hence, when any market pressure group, such as the chart readers and their followers, the "sell" stampede upsets the Big Board, for instance, from March 25 to April 10 stock values shrank 14 per cent, or $6,000,000,000, with an actual exchange of ownership of only one per cent of listed shares!

What is a thin market? A thin market means that there are very few people who are willing either to buy or sell stocks. Ten years ago it sometimes took a five-thousand-share-lot to move the price of a well-known one-eighth of a point. In the recent decline some of these stocks broke two or more points on a few hundred-share sale. The "spread" between the price at which investors are willing to buy stock and the price at which other investors are willing to sell a stock may now run as much as five points. It sometimes takes several hours to bring the buyers and sellers together.

Riggers Cleaned Out

As a result of this "thin" market, Wall Street is very sensitive to sentiment and feelings today. With radio commentators conjuring up war scares, it takes only a few frightened people to start the market downhill. Ten years ago the selling of a few timid investors would quickly be absorbed by professional traders and others who were always ready to take a chance to scalp a fraction of a point. Today, however, these scalpers, short sellers, margin buyers and other professional riggers are no longer in Wall Street. The S.E.C. has smoked them out and driven them away.

Ten years ago it was far too easy for a bunch of Wall Street operators to take the shirt off the back of a Main Street business man. The S.E.C. has cleaned out most of the graft and "fast stuff" of the type that was pulled in 1929. As in all reforms which are made, however, someone has to pay the price. The price for kicking the riggers out of Wall Street has been the creation of the thinnest market in our history. The carrying-out of the Securities Exchange Act has destroyed much of the liquidity of the market. This change can have very serious consequences on future business conditions because so many business men refuse to build or buy when Wall Street is upset.

1937 "Recession" Unwarranted

Take the situation in 1937, for instance. I do not believe there was any basic need for a business recession at that time, or certainly not as serious a one as we had. The market drop, however, caused a reduction of $30,000,000,000 in stock values in nine weeks. Business men thought that industry and trade were going to the dogs. Hence, they stopped buying, cut wages, fired salesmen, and got ready for a depression. When all business men did this, naturally it "did rain."

The same danger exists today. The market average was 150 in the middle of March. Now it is about 20 points lower. Most people measure their wealth by the price of their stocks. A man whose stocks were worth $6,000 today, so he decides not to buy the new automobile that he had been considering. Or, maybe he cancels his order for a new refrigerator. Perhaps he decides not to build the new home he contemplated. If the market does not snap right back, he may change his summer vacation plans. At any rate, he feels definitely poorer than he did a few weeks ago.

Does Hitler's Speech Preclude Any Further Discussion? Is Important Question to be Considered

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)
 Washington, April 28.—"Discussion" was the keyword of President Roosevelt's appeal of 14 days ago to Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini, and discussion remains today the keyword of the future.

When a copy of the Hitler speech to the Reichstag is transmitted through diplomatic channels, it will constitute a formal reply, and, in a few days, the American government will consider the nature and scope of the response. It is important at this time to reread the exact wording of that part of the President's message which related to the conference method of settling disputes. Many persons who read the message hurriedly did not notice, for example, that the President did not offer his services as a "mediator," as the term is officially used in the relation of independent states at war or near war. What Mr. Roosevelt did was to refer to himself as a "friendly intermediary" for the purpose of communicating declarations of national policy.

What is more important to consider is that Mr. Roosevelt proposed a peace conference in which the United States would take part only in certain phases. Thus, America did not intend at any time to participate in the discussion of European boundary questions or matters of territorial controversy. Three separate problems were raised by Mr. Roosevelt from one—political questions—and take part in the solution of the other two, namely, reduction of armament expense and world economic adjustments.

Traditionally, the United States, under Republican as well as Democratic administration, has played an active part in endeavoring to reduce armament by international agreement and also has participated in international economic conferences. The verbatim quotation from the President's proposal which alone is to be considered in appraising the Hitler answer is as follows:

"The discussions which I have in mind relate to the most effective

LAD HELPS SOLVE STRANGLING MYSTERY

Antique U. S. Bathtubs Preserved by Company

American bathtubs, from a slipper-shaped model, invented by Benjamin Franklin, to the ultramodern types are being photographed, and data on them gathered by the Crane company of Chicago at the request of Oglethorpe university, Georgia, which will preserve the material in a campus crypt not to be opened until 8113 A. D.

The company, which has been interested in old tubs as a record of its own business, has most of the models it is immortalizing. Others are in various museums, and are being collected by Frank Hicks of the Crane company.

Franklin's "slipper" tub is a large copper contrivance. The bather sat on a ledge with his feet toward the "toe" of the "slipper," and the water was heated from a fireplace under the ledge. High sides prevented drafts from reaching him. He even had a rack to hold his reading matter before him.

Another early American tub extant is that of the Revolutionary war general, Henry Knox. It looks as though it were half of a horse trough protruding horizontally from the top of a two-foot block of wood. The "trough," also made of wood, is supported at its end by a single wooden leg. The top of the block was used as a seat, and the bather extended his legs into the "trough." This tub is in the Knox memorial at Thomaston, Maine.

Another tub in the company's collection is one used by the Drinker family of Philadelphia in the early years of the Nineteenth century. Elizabeth Drinker wrote in her diary of it: "My husband went into the tub. Before dinner, he'd handseled (tried out) a new bathing tub, which WD (her son, William Drinker) bought yesterday for 17 dollars—made of wood, lined with tin and painted—with casters under the bottom and a brass lock to let out the water."

A tub made at a slightly later date was originally used by Sen. Harry Stubbs of Martin county, North Carolina. The weekly abstinence Stubbs took in this tub was the subject of conversation throughout the county. He is said to have used a whole cake of soap and six towels for every bath. A slave kept drawing water and filling the tub, a round, metal appliance.

Schoonmaker Asks Law Be Returned

Reinstatement of the Federal-state bargaining law governing the marketing of milk was urged by John L. Schoonmaker of Accord, chairman of the Ulster County Dairyman's Producers Committee, in an address before the Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The demoralized market conditions in New York city at the present time he said was due to the invalidation of the federal-state bargaining law which was but recently held unconstitutional by Judge Cooper and he urged that amendments be made to comply with the suggestions of Judge Cooper in order that the bargaining law might again become effective.

Only through co-operation among producers and the benefits of collective bargaining with dealers could the farmer be assured of a living wage for his milk, an industry which is number one among the industries of Ulster county.

Mr. Schoonmaker cited the 20-year battle which dairymen have waged for better prices for milk. With the coming of the federal-state law which permitted co-operatives to bargain with the New York dealers under the Rogers-Allen act, producers were able through collective bargaining to get a fair return for their work. In July, 1937, when the law became effective milk prices from metropolitan dealers advanced with fluid milk bringing upwards of $1.60 per hundred. Then came the invalidation of the law and prices tumbled until the present price is about $1 and there is a promise of a drop to 20 cents during the high production periods. Since Judge Cooper's decision in February the markets of New York have become demoralized and milk is retailing in New York at far below production costs.

Mr. Schoonmaker urged that local people get behind the movement of the dairymen and ask that the amendments pending be adopted as the bargaining law may again become effective with certain changes as suggested by Judge Cooper in his decision.

The recent attempt to get 90 per cent of the men to sign up voluntarily under the same conditions as imposed by the defunct law he said had met with a response close to 90 per cent. Of the 544 creameries in the Metropolitan area 486 signed and he said he believed the dairy farmers were more united now than ever before and he predicted this co-operation would eventually win for the producers a fair return for their product.

Without co-operation by the producers and the resulting payment of a fair price for milk he said local dairymen could not continue. A good return for milk means prosperity in the county since the dairy business and its related industries is one of the biggest money producing crops of the country.

President Huben called attention of members to the Inter-Club meeting at Poughkeepsie on May 2. Golf in the afternoon and dinner at the Nelson House in the evening. An invitation was extended to attend the initiation of a new Kiwanis Club on May 3 at Castleton.

Kerhonkson Union School Activities

Kerhonkson, April 27.—This year, the Kerhonkson Union School has presented various phases of its activities at the regular Parent-Teacher Association meetings. In the final presentation of the year, the entire school will be open for inspection by parents and friends. This program is scheduled for Wednesday evening, May 3 at 7:30 o'clock. Boys and girls in the elementary grades and high school are busily preparing displays of the various projects and activities which they have conducted during the year. In addition to the room offerings, the boys of the freshman class will present an operetta, "The Pirate King," under the direction of Robert L. Dikovic. The music is in charge of Daniel P. Rohn. All parents and friends are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to see what the school is doing for the boys and girls of the community.

The Kerhonkson Union School is providing citizenship and leadership training for a democracy. During the year, the students have directed club activities and have conducted all assemblies. The results of this training will probably be most apparent during the Moving-Up Day events which will be conducted on May 25. As in previous years, this will be a colorful outdoor event featuring songs, dramatic presentations, speeches and athletic contests. At the present time, the Student Council is busily planning these activities. The play directors are: Joan Miller, Helen Mikalonis, Herbert Popple, Beverly Hornbeck and Daniel Pannaccione. Those chosen to represent their class as speakers are: Carol Foord, Matthew Rauch, Marilyn DeWitt, Joseph Cohen and David Rothenberg. The various classes are selecting song leaders to guide them through the music competition. The grand marshal in charge of the day is Elms Benton. She will be assisted by Marjorie Lane, last year's grand marshal.

Fire drills are stressed particularly this year. It has been found that the entire building can be emptied in less than a minute. After the pupils are outside the building, the roll is called for every class in order to make sure that no one has been left behind. Being prepared in case of fire is one of the most important considerations confronting school authorities.

Men's gym night, which has proved so successful this winter, is scheduled to close with the advent of Daylight Saving Time this week. In its place the group is planning to organize a twilight softball league. These games will be played on Tuesday evenings. Anyone may participate, but those who desire to do so are requested to be present on Tuesday, May 2, at 6:45 p. m., at which time the various teams will be chosen.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Chapter 47

Near A Solution

AROUND supper time Asey returned to the Leach house, not remembering until he reached the front door Sara's warning that Bertha was to have the week end off.

But Bertha herself called to him from the upstairs window as he returned to his car.

"Asey! Asey! May I if you want supper, come round to the kitchen door!"

Asey grinned, and returned.

"There's plenty to eat," Bertha said. "If you don't mind cold things—look at my cups! Three!" she pointed proudly to the silver cups on the kitchen table. "And fifty dollars, cash money! I give it to my mother, the money. She was so happy she cried. Oh, I was hopin'—but I thought Mrs. Brinley would get it. She always does! And I know it was you that did it!"

"I was one," Asey reminded her. "of four women and four men."

He didn't feel it was necessary to add that he had maneuvered things so that he made his decisions first, and that the others had used the same blank afterwards, or that he had commented rather outspokenly on his ability as a Cape Codder to know "jody jell" when he saw it in front of his eyes. At least five of the judges had been returned settlers, and they were very anxious to prove themselves good Cape Codders.

"You fixed it, somehow," Bertha said. "And I want you to have the jelly. I told mother, and she said you should have it."

"I can't," Asey said. "Why, you ought to put that on the mantelpiece and show it to all your beaux."

"No," Bertha said obstinately. "I want you to have it. Say, did they do anything to the jelly, like cookin' it? This looks different from when I took it up."

"Not while I was there, and not that far," Asey said. "Look I can't take it."

"You will. You'll have it for supper right now," Bertha said. "With cold roast beef. There. She removed the paraffin and turned the jelly out into a dish. "It certainly looks different," she said. "They must have done something to it. They got through the judges."

"It's a crime to open that, Bertha," Asey said. "But I want you to know I appreciate it."

While he waited for her to cut the beef, he spread some of the jelly on a piece of bread.

"How is it?" Bertha asked. "How—what's the matter?"

Asey, with his hand to his mouth, rushed from the room.

Bertha's eyes filled with tears, and then she grabbed a teaspoon and tasted the jelly. She was rushing from the kitchen as Asey returned.

"Well," Asey said when she came back. "Well, I mean, I'm awful sorry to act like that, but when you have done the same—"

"Asey! Asey!" Bertha said. "Asey, that's not my jelly! I never made anything like that awful thing someone swept out a coal bin and boiled the sweepings with burned sugar! I didn't think, this afternoon, that it was mine. It looked different. But the number was right on it, and it was my number, and it was the same jar, and all—Asey, how do you suppose—how did it happen?"

"What fellow?"

Hamilton shrugged. "Asey brought him from Boston."

"From Boston?"

"Yeah. He's been there today, didn't you know? I don't know the man and nobody told me who he is. While Asey was doing that, he went to sea with a burglar mate once, and he learned all the tricks. And the fellow he had with him helped—" put 'em on another jar. Whatever you do, don't you tell a soul!" "You say kind of scare me," Bertha said. "What're you so solemn about? What's the good of that nasty stuff?"

"You know what's been goin' on, don't you? About Mary Randall an' Elmer?"

Bertha nodded. "Aunt Sara told us, but we haven't told. What's that got to do with it?"

"I figured one thing," Asey said. "I figured another, an' now, with luck, this nasty stuff's goin' to solve them two murders, an' it's goin' to solve 'em before I go to bed tonight!"

Hamilton stood just inside the Town Hall ball room and hummed under his breath the tune that Upjohn's Merry-makers were swinging to the skies.

He had hoped to attend the final grand ball in an entirely unofficial capacity, but he had reckoned without Aunt May.

He finally located Kay Thayer, dancing with Zeb. He winked at her and jerked his head toward the corridor, and then leaned back against the wall as though his only problem in life was to prop up the rafters.

The girl got it. Asey said she would. At the end of the dance Kay wandered over to him.

"Hi, trooper," she looked at the increased watchers and satisfied their curiosity. "Found my brief case yet?"

"Yes, ma'am," Hamilton said. "Will you come look at it?"

He led her out the back way. "Look," he said, "here's a note from Asey. Read it, and then take this to Zeb Chase. I'll wait for you here. Go grab a coat."

"It's insane!"

ZEB watched Kay's departure with increasing irritation. But Asey's note, in his pocket, had been firm and definite. When Asey wanted him, Asey would tell him, and in the interval he was to mind his own business.

"Has Asey really got anything?" Kay demanded as Hamilton turned the car toward the Leaches' house.

"I wouldn't say this to everyone," he told her, "but the guy's losing his grip. He lands up at the hollow this afternoon late with a jar of beachplum jelly—"

"With a what?"

"You heard. And with that, he goes into action. And when Asey—"

"Goes into action," Kay said feelingly, "he goes into action. I know. I had some brief experience with it last night. What have you—what's he been doing?"

Hamilton smiled. "Go change your clothes. I'll see you later."

The darkness and quiet of the old house made Kay glad that the trooper was within call. She changed in a hurry and rushed back to the car.

"Tell me more."

"Oh, we busted into Brinley's—darn dog, it bit Lane. He's mad as hops. We been here twice. Asey, he's burglarized the town offices, with all that gang of you below. He—"

"But there were new locks on the office," he told her so. After Prettyman got in. And say, what's become of Tertius?"

"Oh, he's okay. Asey phoned him tonight. I don't know why. No, look, don't bother Asey. He went to sea with a burglar mate once, and he learned all the tricks. And the fellow he had with him helped—"

"What fellow?"

Hamilton shrugged. "Asey brought him from Boston."

YMCA Campaign At Half Way Mark

The Y. M. C. A. financial drive passed the half way mark in the goal for $12,100 Thursday evening, when the campaign workers reported a total of $6,064.85 subscribed for the four days the drive has been in progress.

Another report meeting will be held at 8:14 o'clock this evening at the Y. M. C. A. when General Secretary Clarence S. Schoonmaker, of the Y. M. C. A. in Amsterdam, will be present and speak. Mr. Schoonmaker is the former general secretary of the local "Y."

It is planned to bring the campaign to a close next Monday evening, and indications are that the campaign will be brought to a successful close.

The work that the "Y" is doing for the boys was vividly brought to the attention of the campaign workers last evening when Principal Clarence Dumm, president of the local "Y," showed movies that he had taken of "Y" camp activities some eight or nine years ago. Mr. Dumm, before the movies were shown, said that it was interesting to note that the boys who appeared in the film then were the young men of today, and many of them were away to college or were employed.

Judging from the movies the boys who attend the annual "Y" camp during the summer months have a glorious time with swimming, boating and other sports, including baseball.

Last night the report meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. Maurice V. Veno, rector of St. John's Church, and during the evening the workers were held in the singing of songs by W. W. Brady, subbing for Alderman Paul Zucca, with Danny Bittner at the piano.

The ladies of the St. Paul Lutheran Church and Trinity M. E. Church served the dinner. The reports of the workers showed that for the four days ending that evening 607 subscribers had subscribed the $6,064.85 reported raised.

The report by divisions follows:

Div.	Subscribers	Subscriptions
Div. 1	21	$101.00
Div. 2	23	120.35
Div. 3	11	102.00
Div. 4	35	66.85
Initial gifts	21	1,400.00

Total	111	$1,790.30
Prev. reported	496	4,274.55
Total to date	607	$6,064.85

England to Grow Firs
Bellingham, Wash. (AP)—The Pacific Northwest, chafing because its forests are being depleted and its plywood factories are becoming idle due to intensive exporting of Douglas fir "peeler" logs, is going to give Europe a chance to raise her own firs. Cones from Douglas firs in the Darrington region near here will be shipped to Europe for experimental purposes. Douglas firs in the Darrington district are recognized as the hardiest and most prolific of their kind.

INDUSTRIAL HORIZONS

A wonderful vista of industrial progress was opened by Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, in a recent survey. American inventiveness has not entered a decline, but is moving forward with amazing speed. On the basis of reports from American industrialists, he reported as already in production, or as proved feasible for human comfort and progress, hundreds of epochal inventions and improvements.

They include new methods of pre-fabricating homes; clothing made from coal and milk; shatterproof eyeglasses of plastics; better steel, engines, lamps, chemicals, roads, rubber goods, photographic films and so on.

He told of the prospects for airplanes flying blind with greater speed and in any weather; of two-way radio, static-free; of chemistry enabling farmers to make hay in the rain; of a one-man harvesting machine that cuts, cleans and bins various crops in one operation, at the rate of one man-hour per acre; of underwear, knitted goods and fine hosiery derived from such natural raw materials as coal, air and water; of woven fabrics of unprecedented quality and durability, spun continuously from rayon yarns made of pulpwood; of glass that can be woven and tied in knots; new methods of packaging and preserving foods; new anesthetics, artificial sponge rubber and synthetic plastics; better and faster railroad trains; incomparably better and cheaper lighting; roads made by combining a new cement with natural soil; invisible glass, wood petrified to prevent wear, better explosive fuels, new roofing, and so on.

Obviously "peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." Incomparable victories have been won, and are being won today, in American laboratories and workshops. And we all benefit from them to some extent. But we might and should benefit far more.

It is human nature, not human intelligence, that is at fault. War and the fear of war, military and political and social, holds us back. If these obstacles could be overcome, we might have a new world in a decade or two.

NO LITERARY "BESTS"

The various committees picking out the nation's "best" literary works of 1938 have had a hard time. The Pulitzer awards will not be known until May, but in the meantime we have the results of a poll taken by the Saturday Review among "critics, reviewers and editors of America." Fifty-seven people from all parts of the country participated in the balloting. They were supposed to name four "bests" in the fields of biography, the novel, history and poetry. They named more than seventy-two different books.

Votes were scattered over so many authors and titles that only five votes chose the winner in history and second place was won by four. The biography winner, Carl Van Doren's "Benjamin Franklin," actually received a majority of the votes in its field, 46 out of 56. And Mrs. Rawlings captured 26 out of 54 votes for "The Yearling." In poetry, however, as in history, so many different books were named that first place was won by eight votes and two books tied for second with only four votes each.

Does this mean that the United States is so rich in first-rate literature these days that critics can't pick a single "best" in any field, or that standards are so confused that the votes don't mean anything? Posterity will have to answer that question.

IMMIGRANTS AND JOBS

The disinclination of free countries to accept refugees driven from the bossed countries is strongly criticized by Alfred Duff-Cooper, formerly head of the British navy. He holds that this attitude is based on ignorance.

The usual reason given for forbidding the entrance of refugees is that they will take the jobs of working people in lands where there is already too much unemployment. But Duff-Cooper calls attention to the statement made a few months ago by the British home secretary, that as a result of 11,000 refugees settling in England there were 15,000 British workers employed who otherwise would have been idle. Britain has always profited by immigration, he says, and needs it today more than for centuries, because of the current decline in population. While refugees are being barred for false reasons, he adds, hundreds of thousands of them are needed for military and civil purposes.

If this is really true of England, it must be true of many other countries. It may be that America, traditional refuge of desirable immigrants who were not wanted, or who lacked opportunity in their native lands, is making a mistake now in raising the immigration barriers so high.

There would have to be a more thorough discussion than we have yet had, however, to change the present restrictive policy. It would have to be proved that more immigrants would make more employment here, instead of more idleness.

THINKING AT NIGHT

"Do your heavy thinking at night," advises Dr. Alexander Randall of the University of Pennsylvania. "The brain works best in those lucid, peaceful moments just before you go to sleep."

Yes, many of us have noticed that. Lying comfortably in bed, in the dark, with the mind floating in empty space, it's remarkable what brilliant ideas a fellow can have. Problems often seem to clear up miraculously. A business man can think of a clever way to make a fortune. A writing man finds himself full of noble ideas and language. Half way between waking and dreaming, but not realizing it, the drowsy genius will say to himself: "Now I'll write this down the first thing when I get up in the morning," or "I'll do so and so the minute I get to the office."

But alas! Next morning the beautiful dreams are gone and the old brain-box is as dumb as ever.

TREATMENT OF ASTHMA, HAY FEVER

Every year, physicians interested in hay fever and asthma, await the report and findings of the Asthma Research Council of Great Britain. The regular London correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association reports that at the asthma clinic of St. Mary's Hospital, the work was principally on hay fever which is held to be closely related to asthma and urticaria (hives). It has been found that the pollen of any one of the English grasses serves to show whether or not the hay fever is due to grass pollen and a vaccine made from one grass will desensitize (stop the pollen from causing the symptoms) all hay fever.

Several cases were investigated in which there was some point of infection—teeth, tonsils, sinus, gall bladder—present, which complicated and added to the symptoms produced by the grass pollen. Where this infection was poisoning the system it was naturally a longer and more difficult process to desensitize the patient to the grass pollen.

It was found that emotional disturbances were a factor in causing asthmatic attacks, even hilarity accompanied by hearty laughter might start an attack of hay fever. Also an emotional attack may start an attack of asthma or neuritis.

Have spoken before of the benefits received in asthma by the use of breathing exercises—principally blowing breath out as hard and as long as possible. To be of use, these exercises must be properly taught and practiced conscientiously. The results obtained were as follows: In about 40 per cent of the cases the asthma either disappeared or became so slight as not to inconvenience the patient. In about 30 per cent the condition was much improved and 30 per cent the condition was not improved. Of the failures half were due to the exercises.

These patients who were selected to show the value of the breathing exercises, carried on at their usual employment and did not avoid food, feathers, or dust to which they might be sensitive nor did they have vaccine treatment or operations on the nose. Any cure or improvement was thus entirely due to the breathing exercises.

A copy of the "Breathing Exercises for Asthma" may be obtained by sending twenty-five cents to The Asthma Research Council, King's College, Strand, London, W.C.2, England.

Allergy

Sensitiveness to various foods or other substances is one of the commonest causes of asthma and hay fever. Send today for this useful booklet by Dr. Barton entitled "Allergy" (No. 106). It tells how to find the offending substance and what to do about them. Send your request to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of service and mailing and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

Babson Says Market Thinnest In History

New York City, April 26—Arriving in New York, I find Wall Street ridden by superstitions—market charts, resistance points, "double bottoms," etc. These investment fads remind me of what happened in Florida just before I came North. Many of the country's newspapers carried the story. A dear old lady from Mississippi came to Florida and "made it rain." As the place where Miss Soate performed is in the next town to Babson Park, Florida, naturally I observed the situation with much interest.

The rain-maker impressed me as an honest and God-fearing woman. Apparently she earnestly believes in her theory. She "sat" with her umbrella by the lakeside until it did rain! As a result, a great number of people are sincerely convinced that she brought the rain. Now, in my humble opinion the Wall Street chartists with their "rain-making" theories about the stock-market are operating as did Miss Lillie Soate. Such stunts may seem to work at times, but when they do, they are coincidences. Here is the joker about chart-reading: By the time the signals have definitely shown that the move is a bull or bear market, the swing is often practically completed.

What Is "Thin Market?" Yet, New York City has been in a furor recently about these chart theories. Surely, this is old stuff, but here is the explanation for all the excitement. Through the S.E.C. regulations and other developments, the market has been made thin. Hence, when any market pressure group, such as the chart readers and their followers, get a "bear" tip from their done, their selling stampede, it sets the Big Board. For instance, from March 25 to April 10 stock values shrank 14 per cent, or $6,000,000,000, with an actual exchange of ownership of only one per cent of listed shares!

What is a thin market? A thin market means that there are very few people who are willing either to buy or sell stocks. Ten years ago it sometimes took a five-thousand-share lot to move the price of a stock a few points. In short, Wall Street is operating on rain-making theories rather than on basic business trends. Under such conditions the Stock Exchange may become a paradise for two-bit speculators and a hazard for legitimate investors.

So, I earnestly urge the S.E.C. and the New York Exchange to get together and restore some of the old liquidity to the stock market. I say again that real security comes only through courage. The most worthwhile charts are the Ten Commandments and the Multiplication Table.

of the liquidity of the market. This change can have very serious consequences on future business conditions because so many business men refuse to build or buy when Wall Street is upset.

1937 "Recession" Unwarranted. Take the situation in 1937, for instance. I do not believe there was any basic need for a business recession at that time, or certainly not as serious a one as we had. The market drop, however, caused a reduction of $30,000,000 in stock values in nine weeks. Business men thought that industry and trade were going to the dogs. Hence, they stopped buying, cut wages, fired salesmen, and got ready for a depression. When all business men did this, naturally it "did rain!"

The same danger exists today. The market average was 150 in the middle of March. Now it is about 20 points lower. Most people measure their wealth by the price of their stocks. A man whose stocks were worth $50,000 a month ago can get only $35,000 today. So he decides not to buy the new automobile that he had been considering. Or, maybe he cancels his order for a new refrigerator. Perhaps he decides not to build the new home he contemplated. If the market does not snap right back, he may change his summer vacation plans. At any rate, he feels definitely poorer than he did a few weeks ago.

His reaction, multiplied by that of millions of consumers, merchants, and manufacturers throughout the country can hurt business. Yet, there is no real reason why the markets should have gone panicky. Business is 18 per cent higher today than it was a year ago. The war scare, plus the combined selling of a bunch of chart worshippers, has knocked the ten market down 25 points. In short, Wall Street is operating on rain-making theories rather than on basic business trends. Under such conditions the Stock Exchange may become a paradise for two-bit speculators and a hazard for legitimate investors.

So, I earnestly urge the S.E.C. and the New York Exchange to get together and restore some of the old liquidity to the stock market. I say again that real security comes only through courage. The most worthwhile charts are the Ten Commandments and the Multiplication Table.

Does Hitler's Speech Preclude Any Further Discussion? Is Important Question to be Considered

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, April 26—"Discussion" was the keyword of President Roosevelt's appeal of 14 days ago to Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini, and discussion remains today the keyword of the future.

When a copy of the Hitler speech to the Reichstag is transmitted through diplomatic channels, it will constitute a formal reply, and, in a few days, the American government will consider the nature and scope of the response. It is important at this time to reread the exact words of that part of the President's message which related to the conference method of settling disputes. Many persons who read the message hurriedly did not notice, for example, that the President did not offer his services as a "mediator," as the term is officially used in the relation of independent states at war or near war. What Mr. Roosevelt did was to refer to himself as a "friendly intermediary" for the purpose of communicating declarations of national policy.

What is more important to consider is that Mr. Roosevelt proposed a peace conference in which the United States would take part only in certain phases. Thus, America did not intend at any time to participate in the discussion of European boundary questions or matters of territorial conflict. Three separate problems were raised by Mr. Roosevelt, and America would remain aloof from one—political questions—and take part in the solution of the other two, namely, reduction of armament expense and world economic adjustments.

Traditionally, the United States, under Republican as well as Democratic administrations, has played an active part in endeavoring to reduce armament by international agreement and also has participated in international economic conferences. The verbatim quotation from the President's proposal which alone is to be considered in appraising the Hitler answer is as follows:

"The discussions which I have in mind relate to the most effective and immediate manner through which the peoples of the world can obtain progressive relief from the crushing burden of armament which is each day bringing them more closely to the brink of economic disaster. Simultaneously the government of the United States would be prepared to take part in discussions looking towards the most practical manner of opening up avenues of international trade to the end that every nation of the earth may be enabled to buy and sell on equal terms in the world market as well as to possess assurance of obtaining the materials and products of peaceful economic life.

"At the same time, those governments other than the United States which are directly interested could undertake such political discussions as they may consider necessary to recognize complex world problems which affect all humanity, but we know that study and discussion of them must be held in an atmosphere of peace. Such an atmosphere of peace cannot exist if negotiations are overshadowed by the threat of force or by the fear of war."

The word "discussion" occurs four times in this epoch-making proposal, and it was plainly designed to get started in the world a consultation out of which an economic program might be evolved.

In appraising the Hitler answer, therefore, the question to be asked is whether the speech precludes any further discussion, or whether it offers an opportunity to carry on the debate before the whole world. Clearly any assurance that Germany and Italy do not intend to "attack or invade the territory or possessions of the 31 countries listed constitutes a record which it will not be easy for the totalitarian states to disregard without permanently injuring their prestige throughout the world and perhaps accelerating the outbreak of war. In these respects, the exchange of speeches or messages has a distinctly beneficial side, irrespective of the bombast or indignation enveloping the reply from the dictatorship countries.

Heads Area Club

Highland, April 28—Mrs. Fred Luther of Kingston became the new president of the Women's Club of Southern Ulster at the meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Eliza Raymond. The president, Mrs. Raymond, Mrs. LeFevre, of Esopus, who was instrumental in organizing the club four years ago presided at the opening of the meeting. Mrs. John J. Gaffney reported for the nominating committee and following the unanimous election Mrs. Luther took the chair. Associated with Mrs. Luther for the coming year are: Mrs. A. L. LeFevre, vice president; Miss Raymond, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Schmidt, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Alice Dumond, treasurer; with Mrs. Jesse Alexander assisting for this section.

Gaffney, program; Mrs. Raphael Klein, motion pictures; Mrs. Laurin Abrams, membership; Mrs. A. R. Mott, hospitality. There was a discussion as to eliminating some of the winter months and hold meetings during the summer, but following the appointment of Mrs. Jesse Alexander and Mrs. Callahan on transportation, it will be easier for those without methods of travel to attend.

The type of programs that will be of pleasure and profit were also under discussion. Since alternate meetings are in the afternoon and evening it was decided to have a speaker alternately. At meetings when there are no speakers, a half hour will be given to the study of better speech and to parliamentary study.

The meeting on May 23 will be President's Day at the home of Mrs. A. L. LeFevre, when the presidents of the federated clubs in Ulster and Orange counties are to be the guests and a well known speaker to address them.

Mrs. LeFevre was presented with two gifts from the club members in appreciation of her efforts in maintaining the club interest and in carrying on under many adverse circumstances. She poured at the tea table and present were: Mrs. H. M. Cameron, Ulster Park; Mrs. Alice Dumond, Ulster Park; Mrs. Mott, Esopus; Mrs. Luther, Kingston; Mrs. Ella H. Burchell, Mrs. J. J. Gaffney, Mrs. Callahan, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Laurin Abrams, Clintdale; Mrs. LeFevre, Miss Raymond.

Price Corrections

The following prices were incorrectly listed in an advertisement of the New York Cloak and Suit Co., in The Freeman yesterday: Sports dresses listed at $15, $22.95 and $7.95, were supposed to have been priced at $3.95, $3.95 and $7.95. The statement that these were formerly $29.95 and $75, was also incorrect. This should have read $7.95 and $15. The store is at 30 North Front street.

Antique U. S. Bathtubs Preserved by Company

American bathtubs, from a slipper-shaped model, invented by Benjamin Franklin, to the ultramodern types are being photographed, and data on them gathered by the Crane company of Chicago at the request of Oglethorpe university, Georgia, which will preserve the material in a campus crypt not to be opened until 1813 A. D.

The company, which has been interested in old tubs as a record of its own business, has most of the models it is immortalizing. Others are in various museums, and are being collected by Frank Hicks of the Crane company.

Franklin's "slipper" tub is a large copper contrivance. The bather sat on a ledge with his feet toward the "toe" of the "slipper," and the water was heated from a fireplace under the ledge. High sides prevented drafts from reaching him. He even had a rack to hold his reading matter before him.

Another early American tub extant is that of the Revolutionary war general, Henry Knox. It looks as though it were half of a horse trough protruding horizontally from the top of a two-foot block of wood. The "trough," also made of wood, is supported at its end by a single wooden leg. The top of the block was used as a seat, and the bather extended his legs into the "trough." This tub is in the Knox memorial at Thomaston, Maine.

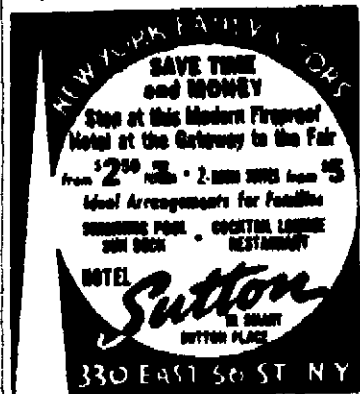

Another tub in the company's collection is one used by the Drunker family of Philadelphia in the early years of the Nineteenth century. Elizabeth Drunker wrote in her diary:

of it: "My husband went into my tub bath. Before dinner, he'd handed (tried out) a new bathing tub, which WD (her son, William Drunker) bought yesterday for 17 dollars—made of wood, lined with tin and painted—with casters under the bottom and a brass lock to let out the water."

A tub made at a slightly later date was originally used by Sen. Harry Stubbs of Martin county, North Carolina. The weekly abolition Stubbs took in this tub was the subject of conversation throughout the county. He is said to have used a whole cake of soap and six towels for every bath. A slave kept drawing water and filling the tub, a round, metal appliance.

Stocks Continued Gains Thursday

Stock prices continued their improvement Thursday and for the third day gains were shown, although volume remained low, a total of 540,000 shares changing hands. The market was strongest toward the close and finished at the best level of the day. Dow-Jones industrial average showed a gain of 1.22 points, to 129.78. Rails were up 0.25 point, to 26.03, and utilities advanced 0.19 point, to 22.34.

The bond market was cautious, with corporate bond volume small since last September; foreign issues were heavy. There was a steady undertone to the commodity market, with the futures index again showing a gain. Cotton closed off two to nine points, but wheat futures were up a half to one cent higher at Chicago, to the highest levels since January 26. World sugar contracts went to 1.49 cents a pound, highest since January, 1937.

There was recession in the London market following Chamberlain's speech Wednesday and heavy industry shares were under pressure on announcement of impending legislation which would limit armament profits. The Amsterdam Bourse was moderately firm and prices closed at the day's best. There was a general advance in prices on the Berlin Bourse.

Department of commerce reports show that factory sales of cars and trucks in the United States and Canada for the three months ended March 31, totaled 1,055,376, an increase of 58 per cent over the first quarter of 1938. March sales established a new peak for the year.

Ford plants will begin manufacture of a new tractor plough which Henry Ford believes will revolutionize farming on mass production basis. It incorporates a new principle, weighs 1,700 pounds, has four wheels and is operated by a four cylinder motor. It is said that all plans for the three-wheel tractor Ford was on the verge of producing last year have been discarded.

Net of Continental Oil for the first quarter of the year was down to the equivalent of 15 cents a share, vs. 38 cents in 1938 quarter.

Bethlehem Steel reported net profit of $2,409,059, equivalent to 17 cents a share on its common stock for the quarter ended March 31, as against profit of $994,908 in the same quarter last year. #### New York, April 28 (AP)—Stocks retreated in today's market, after an early advance following Hitler's speech to the Reichstag which was considered less belligerent than had been expected.

Gains, running to a point or so at the start, were converted into losses of 1 to 3 near the final hour. Opening dealings, much more active than recently, slowed to a crawl after noon. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 900,000 shares.

Brokers seemed a bit mystified at the timidity of buyers inasmuch as Wall Street, generally, expressed gratification over the relatively moderate address of the Nazi chieftain which, it was thought, should ease European war tension, at least for the time being.

In addition, business news took on a slightly brighter hue, and the first quarter earnings statements of Chrysler and Bethlehem, coming after yesterday's close, served to bolster sentiment to some degree. At that, continuance of the soft coal tie-up was seen as a damper for steel and other producers confronted with dwindling fuel supplies.

Bonds were selectively improved, but commodities shifted over an uneven route. Inclined to back down were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Westinghouse, du Pont, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Kennecott and Douglas Aircraft.

HIZZONER TALKS—THE OTHERS LISTEN

President Offers New Relief Bid, Asks $1,723,000,000

Roosevelt's Message Reminds Congress That Sum Less by Third of This Year's Allotment

Sees Better Days

Chief Executive Says Nation Justified in Expecting Better Things

Washington, April 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress yesterday for a relief appropriation of $1,723,000,000 for the 12 months period beginning next January 1. The Works Progress Administration would receive, $1,477,000,000.

Eczema Itching

Here's Quick Ease and Comfort
Go to any first-class drugist today and get an original bottle of clean, powerful, penetrating Moone's Emerald Oil and apply a few drops over the affected area.

Mr. Roosevelt said his recommended figure for the next fiscal year represented a reduction of one-third below the approximately $2,250,000,000 he said was appropriated for the current year.

Would Employ 2 Millions
He said $1,477,000,000 would permit employment of "slightly more than an average of 2,000,000 persons" during the next year. "Barring unforeseen and unpredictable developments," the President told Congress, "we are justified in expecting an upward trend in the volume of employment between now and June 30, 1940, and the sum just named represents my judgment as to the amount that should be provided on the basis of that expectation."

Against Changes
The President came out against any major changes in the Works Progress Administration set-up, other than those administrative revisions which he outlined in his "reorganization plan number one" submitted to Congress earlier this week.

"It is my opinion that the operations of the Work Progress Administration during the next fiscal year," he said, "should be carried on much as at present, but with the reduction that will be possible because of expected increases in private employment and a consequent decline in the need for work relief."

Important Economies
"Organizational changes which I expect to be made under the authority granted in the recent reorganization act will, I anticipate, make possible important economies resulting from the coordination of the operations of various federal agencies which are engaged in carrying out projects."

The President reaffirmed his stand against payment of doles as a substitute for wages paid to relief workers and also flatly stated opposition to any system of relief grants by the federal government to the states. Such grants have been advocated by many Republicans and other congressional critics of the present relief set-up.

Many Disadvantages
"I believe," Mr. Roosevelt told Congress, "that such a system (of grants) has as many disadvantages as there are local political units in the nation."

The chief executive expressed the hope that the investigation of WPA now being conducted by a House committee "will be guided along constructive lines, and if this is done I feel sure that its outcome will be to demonstrate the wisdom of the measures which have been adopted to meet the needs of the unemployed."

Regarding distribution of WPA funds Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Any formula that may be devised for this purpose and written into legislation should take in account not only the factor of population, but also the constantly changing economic and unemployment conditions in various sections of the country.

On Basis of Jobs
"Allocation should be made on the basis of jobs to be provided and not on the local basis of funds to be distributed. Furthermore, the formula should not be too rigid and should permit a substantial amount of administrative discretion in order to provide sufficient flexibility to meet special situations and relief crises."

"The matter of the contributions of sponsors to Works Progress Administration projects has been satisfactorily covered by the provisions of the emergency relief appropriation act of 1938, which placed a limit on the amount of federal funds that can be used for purposes other than the payment of wages. I suggest a continuation of this practice rather than the imposition of a percentage basis on which sponsors would be required to participate."

NYA Request
In the same message, the President requested an appropriation of $123,000,000 for the next fiscal year for the National Youth Administration and also an appropriation of $123,000,000 for the Farm Security Administration. He asked that unexpended funds remaining to these agencies be carried over into the next year.

He recommended appropriation of $1,350,000 for the Indian service for continuing Indian rehabilitation.

In addition, the President asked $25,650,000 for administrative expenses of several government agencies in connection with carrying phases of the relief program. This would be divided as follows: Civil Aeronautics Authority $250,000, general accounting office $5,225,000, treasury department $14,925,000 and U. S. Employees Compensation Commission $5,250,000.

He also recommended appropriations of $1,500,000 for the National Emergency Council, $990,000 for the national resources committee, and $10,000,000 for the Puerto Rico reconstruction administration.

"It may be of interest to the Congress," the President said, "to know that through the department of state we have received many assertions that there are few unemployed persons in the nations which have accepted totalitarian forms of government."

"In these nations private employment takes care of a smaller proportion of their employable citizens than private employment does in the United States."

"This means that government employment is responsible for the care of a larger portion of the employable population than in this country—creating in fact a government employment system, based in great part on the manufacture of munitions, which costs far more than our system."

"The principal difference is that in the nations to which I refer, this employment is called employment, whereas in the United States it is called relief."

Far Cheaper

"Actually, our system of work relief is relatively far cheaper than the other method and as at present constituted does take care of the great majority of the needy unemployed who are able to work. I trust that the people will not be deceived by the terminology and will not assume that the totalitarian methods of government are more effective than our own."

"The system which we have favored in the United States during the past six years is by no means perfect. It can be improved but not at the expense of substituting the dole for work relief nor by turning the management of works projects back to the sole care of the many thousands of local governments. It will be said by history, after much political smoke has cleared away, that the federal government's handling of work relief has been one of our most efficient administrative accomplishments."

ARMY FINDS ITS TACTICS ARE SAME AS IN 35 B. C.

Belgrade, (AP)—Infantry tactics haven't changed in 2,000 years, a Yugoslav general observed after maneuvers in Croatia, in the course of which soldiers stumbled into a rich archaeological treasure.

A modern sham battle was fought in precisely the same way the Romans battled the warlike Illyrians in 35 B. C.

The modern Yugoslav maneuver problem was the defense of Croatia from an army advancing northeast from the Adriatic sea. The defending general studied the topography carefully and decided the best place to make a stand was at the village of Metlika on the Kupa river. His soldiers dug in, and were surprised to encounter the remains of ancient fortifications.

Scientists now have identified these fortifications as defenses built by the ancient Illyrians, forefathers of the modern Albanians, to fight the legions of Emperor Augustus.

Fite Says Budget Passage Certain, Defends Slashes

Emerson D. Fite, state assemblyman from Poughkeepsie, a member of the Vassar College faculty and member of the Assembly

of the New York State School Boards Association, Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel, predicted that the state legislature would without doubt pass the Republican-proposed "lump sum budget" which will cut some $30,000,000 from Governor Lehman's proposed state budget.

This cut will include a 10 per cent reduction in the amount of available state aid for schools.

clared the present cut would be come effective but he predicted that there would be a further cut next year.

Defends Cut

Defending the cut in the budget he disagreed with the attitude of many that the school budget must not be touched.

Modern schools are "so embellished they aren't practical," he said, and blamed the government for its contribution of 45 per cent of the cost of school building construction, saying that with this federal aid there had been too much of a temptation to "build palaces." He scored the attitude of many communities in erecting magnificent "palaces" for school purposes and said that growing tax sales indicated the inability of at least some to meet the burden. He cited these magnificent

"palaces" on one hand and "half starved and ill-clothed" children in attendance, living for four years in these magnificent buildings he said these same children would later have to return to their poor homes.

Change in Policy

Assemblyman Fite said there would be a "change in the financial policy of the State of New York if the present party stays in power although the change would not be in the governor's charter.

He predicted that a committee would be appointed to study the question of state aid for schools and he said that if such an investigation were made there would be a further cut in appropriations.

The talk by Dr. Fite was delivered at the dinner meeting of the association at the Governor

Clinton Hotel following the afternoon business session which was held at the high school. Speaking on "Directives of Education

Which Lead Toward a Realization of American Democracy," he said the purpose of education is to teach the pupils how to think;

not what democracy is. The subject matter taught is not as important as the "training of a better brain." A student who has been schooled in "mental gym-astics" is better able to lead a life of intelligent productivity, he said.

Intellectually Alert

One of the purposes of education is to make our boys and girls intellectually alert. The purpose of education is not democracy, he said, but this can be picked up on the way. "If teachers can teach so that the pupils are provoked to independent and original thinking, then I say, you have benefitted democracy in the best way," he

The talk by Mr. Fite was in effect an answer to a statement made

Harold L. Fuess of Watervliet

Central Board and a past presi-

spoken on "A Layman's Evaluation of the Regents Inquiry Report." Mr. Fuess declared the cut in the state fund would cut state aid to districts and would of necessity mean a cut in extra-curricular activities. He said he believed that the ones to suffer would be

would mean one of two things, an increase in our district taxes or some curtailment in school

In his talk Mr. Fite called attention to the magnificent school buildings which had been erected with federal aid and he asked the question how could many communities support and maintain these splendid structures.

Davis Presides

The afternoon session at the

with George M. Davis, Jr., of New Rochelle, chairman of District 5, presiding. There was registration of delegates from Ulster, Orange,

Dutchess, Rockland, Sullivan and Putnam counties followed by an inspection of the high school buildings with students acting as guides. During the reception the high school band gave a program in the auditorium which evoked much favorable comment from the delegates on the splendid performance.

comed the visitors and the high spots of the Kingston school system were outlined by Superintendent

E. C. Van Ingen.

W. A. Clifford, executive secretary of the association, spoke on "Educational Legislation for 1939"

followed by a talk on "Administration and Supervision of School

Health Service" by Cyrus H. Max-

Department.

President Melvin R. Horton of Peekskill board of education spoke on "State Aid" in which he outlined on full appropriation, percentage cut, pegging, double aid, earlier payment and kindergarten

At an open forum discussions under leaders was held on various topics. Enos Lee of Yorktown

Heights Central Board and a past president of the Association of Central Rural School District

Boards, led a talk on "Permissive vs. Mandatory Centralization."

Harold L. Fuess of Watervliet led the discussion on "A Layman's

quiry Report." George A. Schiavone of Poughkeepsie, superintendent of School District No. 7, led a discussion on "Salary and Retirement of Teachers."

Kenneth E. Smith, superintendent of Walden schools, led the discussion on "Workmen's

Zoning Petition Meets Opposition

There was opposition to the petition of Mrs. Herman Young of 496-500 Albany avenue requesting that the property be included in the business instead of the residential zone to permit her to erect a three car garage on her property, when the matter came up for a public hearing before the laws and rules committee of the common council Thursday evening at the city hall.

Attorney Joseph A. Viscusi

for Paul Cicisic, of 502-504 Albany avenue, and objected to the granting of the petition on the ground that it would depreciate

John W. Martin of 488 Albany avenue and Harry Daigle of 495

Albany avenue, who had signed the Young petition, were also at the hearing and registered objections to the granting of the petition.

Mr. Martin claimed that when he signed the petition he had been told it was to be an addition to the present garage, while

Mr. Daigle said he opposed the erection of a warehouse in the front of the property.

Mrs. Young, who appeared in her own behalf, said the garage was to be built for the storage of trucks which were now parked in the yard.

Frank Moon, of 496 Albany avenue, said that the zoning change would

YMCA Campaign At Half Way Mark

The Y. M. C. A. financial drive passed the half way mark in the goal for $12,000 Thursday evening, when the campaign workers reported a total of $6,064.85 subscribed for the four days the drive has been in progress.

Another report meeting will be held at 6:14 o'clock this evening at the Y. M. C. A. when General Secretary Clarence S. Schoonmaker, of the Y. M. C. A. in Amsterdam, will be present and speak. Mr. Schoonmaker is the former general secretary of the local Y.

It is planned to bring the campaign to a close next Monday evening, and it is expected that the campaign will be brought to a successful close.

The work that the "Y" is doing for the boys was vividly brought to the attention of the campaign workers last evening when Principal Clarence Dumm, president of the local "Y," showed movies that he had taken of "Y" camp activities some eight or nine years ago. Mr. Dumm, before the movies were shown, said that it was interesting to note that the boys who appeared in the film that were the young men of today, and many of them were away to college or were employed.

Judging from the movies the boys who attend the annual "Y" camp during the summer months have a glorious time with swimming, boating and other sports, including baseball.

Last night the report meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. Maurice V. Veno, rector of St. John's Church, and during the evening the workers were led in the singing of songs by W. W. Brady, subbing for Alderman Paul Zucca, with Danny Bittner at the piano.

The ladies of the St. Paul Lutheran Church and Trinity M. E. Church served the dinner.

The reports of the workers showed that for the four days ending that evening 607 subscribers had subscribed the $6,064.85 reported raised.

The report by divisions follows:

Div.	Subscribers	Subscriptions
Div. 1	21	$101.00
Div. 2	23	120.35

England to Grow Firs

Bellingham, Wash. (AP) — The Pacific Northwest, chafing because its forests are being depleted and its plywood factories are becoming idle due to intensive exporting of Douglas fir "peeler" logs, is going to give Europe a chance to raise her own firs. Cones from Douglas firs in the Darrington region near here will be shipped to Europe for experimental purposes. Douglas firs are recognized as the hardest, and most prolific of their kind.

Back to the Minor Leagues (As Managers)

By The AP Feature Service

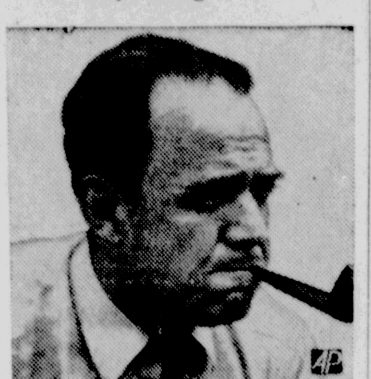

When their arms go dead or their legs slow up, major-league stars often turn to managerial jobs in the minors. Every season finds some former Big Show ace starting anew in the lower leagues. Here are four men who became "minor managers" in 1939:

After 16 years in the National League, Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler retired from the Brooklyn outfield to manage Chattanooga of the Southern Association.

George William (Mule) Haas, outfielder who ended 11 years in the big leagues last season with the A's, is the new Oklahoma City manager.

Burleigh Grimes took over the Montreal club of the International loop after a two-year stretch as pilot of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

William Watson Clark, the old National League flinger for the Giants and Dodgers, returned to baseball as Reidsville, N.C., skipper in the Bi-State League.

(By The Associated Press)
Baltimore — Steve Mamakos, 152, Washington, won on a technical knockout over Mickey Makar, 148½, Jersey City, (2).

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

Before it is completed this major league baseball campaign may be remarkable for many things, but right now it is distinguished for the number and length of its extra-inning games.

In 11 days, during which many contests were rained out, there have been nine marathon matches. This is approximately double the number of extra-inning ventures over any similar period in recent years.

The list was padded yesterday by the 13-inning duel the Chicago White Sox claimed from the Detroit Tigers and the 11-inning thriller the St. Louis Cardinals took from Pittsburgh's hapless Pirates.

It was the third meeting of the two American League clubs this season and the second time they have worked overtime. One of the two games the Sox played at Detroit went 14 innings with the Tigers finally winning on Hank Greenberg's first home run of the year.

The White Sox got revenge yesterday with Hank Steinbacher pinch-hitting Mike Kreevich home in the 13th for a 2-1 victory. Kreevich singled four times and scored Chicago's other run.

Pittsburgh's seventh consecutive loss in the other extra-chapter story was a bitter dose because the Pirates led most of the way and seemed victory-bound when Gus Suhr hit a home run in the 11th. But Don Padgett singled in a tying run and the usually steady Pop Young fumbled a grounder which let Padgett also score and win 6-5 for the Cardinals.

The Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds were headed for a long bout until the Reds burst out with eight runs in their half of the eighth to win 11-3. Big Ival Goodman, who had homered with one on in the first, led the eighth inning uprising with a single followed by a triple with the bases full.

The Boston Bees and Philadelphia Phillies also decided their melee in the eighth as Al Simmons hit for the circuit and Boston's margin in a 5-4 triumph.

On the other hand the Washington Senators had no trouble subduing the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-3, on the nine-hit knuckleball pitching of Dutch Leonard, who has accounted for two of the Nationals' three victories to date.

The St. Louis Browns eased past the Cleveland Indians, 4-2, with Johnny Marcum having a shutout until the ninth when Jeff Heath hit a home run with one on for the Tribe.

Bad weather in the east caused postponement of the games scheduled between New York and Brooklyn in the senior circuit and the Yankees and Boston in the American League.

City League Elects Officers; Seven Slugfests Slated Tonight

Kelly, Coughlin, Banks, Geoghan Returned to Posts

Umpires and Groundkeeper to Be Named Monday—Caseys Will Be Sixth Team

President Joe Kelly was re-elected to guide the Kingston City Baseball League through the 1939 twilight loop campaign at the manager's meeting in the City Hall last night. Three other holdovers in the officials posts were also installed, Ed Coughlin as vice president, Ed Banks, veteran treasurer, handling the financial angle and Jim Geoghan, secretary. All officials were returned to office via the unanimous route with Jack Dawkins and Gus Steigerwald acting as tellers of the election proceedings.

Knights to Enter
Andy Gilday, spokesman for the Knights of Columbus, gave definite assurance that the Caseys would cavort in the twilight loop once again this summer. With the Knights back in the fold a six-team set up is on tap for the twilight addicts. Gilday, communicating with Secretary Jim Geoghan, stated that the Knights were rounding up a collection of talent under the guidance of Paul Joyce and in all probability would place a team on the field.

The Caseys, always big favorites with two-loop fans, would balance a strong circuit composed of Gruenewalds, Jones Dairy, Closi A. C., Boiceville Rangers and the Kingston Independents for a six-team roster. Last year's Kyanize-Casey rivalry was one of the highlights of a hotly-contested campaign and the Knights would be welcome additions to the league this season.

Deadline Monday
Next Monday's meeting is the deadline for the posting of the customary entry fee and the submitting of player's rosters by the managers. The City Loop magnates will convene for the final business session at 7:30 and the grand finale to the pre-game sessions will be staged. All representatives of teams must be present at this meeting.

Election of two umpires was postponed last night pending decision of the Knights of Columbus entry as was the balloting for the groundkeeper's position. Dick Dulin, Bill "Pie" Murphy and Bill Scully are competing for the balls and strikes post while Patsy DeCicco and Mob Lynch are in the running for the caretaker's duties. The defeated candidate in both positions will automatically become the alternate during the first half slate of games.

Secretary Geoghan distributed tentative slate of two-loop battles to managers for approval pending Monday night's meeting. Much discussion prevailed as to the awarding of trophies for individual leadership in batting averages, most home runs, etc., and a committee will be appointed Monday to canvass for prizes.

Election of umpires, groundkeeper, posting of team rosters, reading of by-laws and filing of entry fees are listed for the City League's next confab, Monday evening at 7:30.

Kingston High School Meets Ellenville Nine Here Saturday Afternoon

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Kingston High will meet Ellenville as the DUSO League gets under way at the Athletic Field.

Handicapped somewhat by the weather man this year, Coach Cliff Miller of the Maroon and White nine will have his fingers crossed until he sees his team in action for at least three or four frames. Miller will open the fray by sending Hank Tiano, young right-hander against the mountaineers in an attempt to jump the gate in the first game.

Hit hard by graduation last June, the Millermen will have a lot of new faces in the starter tomorrow. The infield, consisting of Al Decker, George Schrick, Tony Berinato and Jimmy Ashdown, is practically new except for Ashdown. In the outfield Harry Mickle, Ken Hopper and either Johnny Berardi or Henry Stoll will get the nod. Not one of these men was around for varsity service last year.

Hank Tiano, a pitching star last year in a few games, will have his best opportunity to show his worth. Given help by his mates afield and at the plate, Tiano should go the route if he is allowed. Bill Windburn will be around to do relief duty.

Last year the Millermen copped the flag when they defeated Ellenville 7 to 1 behind the neat hurling of George Celuch. As to who will make up the mountaineer's roster tomorrow at the start is still a big question.

All of Kingston's home games will be played as usual at the Athletic Field on Smith avenue.

Sportsmen Enjoy Their Movie, Lanny Ross Plans Radio Show

An audience of about 100 members and friends were in attendance at the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association held Thursday evening in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium on Broadway, when a number of matters of interest to sportsmen were taken up. President Nelson M. Snyder presided, and at the close of the meeting a reel of movies starring Tony Accetta, champion plug caster, was shown.

The association voted to hold a clam bake again this year, and William Henniger, George Swart, Howard Myer, Leroy Lyke, J. Kolts and Arthur Frohlich were named a committee to make arrangements.

Attention was called to the prizes being offered for the biggest trout caught each month. A contest prize of $5 value is given each month for the biggest fish entered. These prizes are being offered by Jack Feye.

A new club is being formed at Ulster Park, and as this was part of the territory allotted to the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association for stocking it was agreed that the association should make an effort to form a working agreement with the new club, similar to that under which it is now working with the Lake Katrine Club.

The subject of putting on a radio show sponsored jointly by the Phoenixia Fish and Game Association and the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association was discussed, and a committee named to meet with representatives of the Phoenixia club.

"Lanny" Ross, one of radio's popular stars, would have charge of the show and be one of the principals in it. "Lanny" does a lot of fishing in Ulster county and Phoenixia is one of his favorite stopping places, and to show his appreciation of the efforts of the local association in providing good fishing has offered to put on the show to raise funds to procure fish for stocking the streams in this vicinity.

Frank & Charles Barbers Win Recreation Bowling Honors

By taking three straight games from the Century Cement rollers, the Frank & Charles Barbers won the championship of the Central Recreation Bowling League Thursday night.

Jones Dairy men entered last night's competition, favored to clinch the title, but slumped when they met the Gentiles.

Jack Pirie, anchor man for the Barbers, posted a 229 single and a 613 series to help his club to the title.

A meeting to arrange details for the Recreation League banquet will be held early next week.

Dutch Williams And Guy Gallucci In Heavy Match

Raigins-Leger Meet in the Other Pairing on Top of Boxing Card

Tonight the municipal auditorium is expected to be packed with fans who like action. The bill of fistic attractions features all sluggers instead of the so called "fancy fighters" and patrons of fistiana have been talking favorably about the card topped by Dutch Williams and Guy Gallucci, two heavyweight bellers.

Williams got up off the floor to knock out Gallucci a couple of weeks ago, and tonight the Schenectady boy hopes to get even. "That was a lucky punch," Guy said as he agreed on the return match with the Newburgh wallower. Williams hopes to repeat tonight. Prior to meeting the Hilly City Dutchman, Gallucci had been bowling over opponents himself via the knockout route.

In the other top bout, Charlie Raigins, Saugerties featherweight, boxing for the first time at home since returning from the national tournament at San Francisco, will meet Cliff Leger, Mohawk Indian, who is anxious to square things with the Honeyboy. Raigins trimmed the chief some time ago, but since then Leger took a rest and is now at his peak according to reports from his camp.

Another bout that has been creating a lot of comment among the boxing fans is the five rounder between Jess Caprotti, local lightweight, and Roy Collier of Albany. Both have been out of actual competition for several months, and each hopes to win in his comeback tonight. Caprotti has been working out at the Y. M. C. A. and is said to be ready for a strenuous battle.

The complete card is as follows: Guy Gallucci, Schenectady, vs. Dutch Williams, Newburgh, heavyweights.

Charlie Raigins, Saugerties, vs. Cliff Leger, Schenectady, featherweights.

Buddy Bookman, Hurleyville, vs. Hugo DuBaldi, Newburgh, middleweight.

Tiano Popular With the Ladies—400 Pounder Uses 2 Seats

The City Baseball League is looking for donors of prizes . . . Jack Dawkins has already put up one for the first home run . . . Steve Connelly, a first rate flinger once, has offered another . . . Gus Steigerwald is hunting a sponsor for his team . . . Last year his gang played for Angelo Closi . . . Reports are that Jack Haber is interested . . . From the way things shape up, this summer should be a banner one for the league . . . The next meeting is Monday at 7:30 sharp . . . Mrs. Adelaide Gilbert is back at the head of the Colonial Women's League . . . We wish her and all the girls a lot of good luck next season . . . That Charlie Tiano is a lucky guy . . . The gals invite him to dine, then sit and listen to him talk—and finally hand him a bill-fold . . . Kidding aside, we'll say he deserved all that the lady bowlers did for him because he has done a lot not alone for them but all the bowling interests in the city . . . We'd like to add our vote of thanks for the cooperation from Mary Butler, secretary of the Colonials . . . So the Barmanns are champs of the National division of the City Basketball League . . . Nice going boys . . . And we understand that the Baltz tossers were unable to score a field until the last period of their game last night . . . There's not a fancy fighter on the card at the auditorium tonight, but we'll go out on the limb to say that the bill scraps probably will make a bigger hit with the fans who seem to delight in those real honest to goodness slugfests.

Bridgeport, Conn., has 130 softball teams . . . Joe McCarthy, who was an engaged fellow himself once, is worrying about Joe DiMaggio . . . He's afraid Joie might change his mind and decide to marry in mid-season . . . Cliff Metton can't understand why his comeback is flopping . . . He thinks he has better stuff than ever . . . Broadway odds today made Johnstown the derby favorite at 5-2 . . . Willie London, 400 pound fight fan from Washington, has ordered two seats for the Louis vs. Galento fight . . . He'll use both of them . . . Larry MacPhail and his Dodgers stand for a lot of kidding, but he burns up when somebody calls the club the "Larry Phailures" . . . The Frank & Charles Barbers are probably putting on a lot more, later today, thinking that they're still rolling against the Century Cementers for the Recreation League title . . . They soaped them over for three straight to cop the championship.

300 Girl Reserves In Show Saturday

Three hundred Girl Reserves are busy making last minute preparations for their 13th annual Girl Reserve Show at the Municipal Auditorium Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

There is an additional interest in this year's show for when this miniature World Fair opens on the stage of the auditorium tomorrow, Mayor Heiselman will be on hand to receive the keys from the tiniest member of the Bluebird group as she climbs out of the model periscope.

One of the largest groups is the Bluebird Group. The scene is the gardens of the fair, and opens as the garden girls plant the seeds and water them. The sun comes up and then the strains of Country Gardens the Flowers awaken. The Butterflies dance about the garden, the Black Eyed Susans dance, some little girls with parasols visit and admire the gardens, and a picket fence which has been standing so decorously in the background comes to life, dances to the front of the stage and when reversed, turns out to be a row of sun-flowers.

There will be two dances by Miss Edith Ellison, "The Blue Danube," and an "Italian Fiesta Dance." Jane Herdman and Verabel Crisman will do a "Cossack Dance" and during the "Scene at the Fair" there will be two special groups, "Chef's Dance," which will be done by Gladys Avery, Joyce Emerick, Beth Winters, Rosella Mosher, and "The Umbrella Men" by Dolores Kelse, Doris Kelse and Dolores Gillan.

The part of the Goddess of Liberty will be taken by Anna Marie Manfro, and it is rumored that Ferdinand the Bull has been introduced to appear in a comedy number toward the end of the show.

Tickets are on sale at the Y. W. C. A. or at the door for a very nominal sum.

Ribbons Dress Up the Valance

For the side draperies, choose a figured chintz—for the valance, plain chintz. Stunning is an ivory pattern on a soft green ground combined with plain ivory chintz. Use ribbons of a darker green for valance and tie-backs. How to mark the smartly draped valance? Cut the fabric about twice as deep as you want the finished valance to be. Slant at each end and shape the lower edge in shallow scallops as in diagram A. Stitch up in soft folds, loop ribbons over stitches,

smart trimmings, fabrics, color schemes. Tips on cornices.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of NEW IDEAS IN MAKING CURTAINS AND DRAPERIES to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Hitler Denounces Anglo Naval Pact

He arrived at Kroll Opera House, the meeting place, at noon and began speaking nine minutes later (6:09 a. m. E. S. T.).

Recites His Aims

He first called upon the Reichstag to ratify or reject his answer to the United States president and then launched into a recital of his aims in Europe.

The first applause came when he said, "I merely restored to the German people what others had broken by force."

"I have not taken any step that violated foreign rights but have merely restored the rights violated 20 years ago."

"Providence has let me find the ways for liberating our people from the deepest misery without bloodshed and for leading them upward again," he declared.

"I should not like to let this opportunity pass without giving above all to the President of the United States an assurance regarding those territories which would after all give him the most cause for apprehension, namely the United States itself and the other states of the American continent."

"And I here solemnly declare that all the assertions which have been circulated in any way concerning an impending German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths, quite apart from the fact that such assertions, as far as the military possibilities are concerned, could have their origin only in a stupid imagination."

Basis for Treaty Gone

Hitler declared that the basis for the naval treaty with Great Britain, limiting the Reich's navy to 35 per cent of the British, had been removed and that he had notified the British government to that effect.

"Since England today, both by the press and officially, upholds the view that Germany should be opposed under all circumstances and confirms this by the policy of encirclement known to us, the basis for the naval treaty has been removed."

"I have therefore resolved to send today a communication to this effect to the British government."

"This is not a matter of practical material importance to us—for I still hope that we shall be able to avoid an armaments race with England—but an action of self respect."

"Should the British government, however, wish to enter once more into negotiations with Germany on this problem no one would be happier than I at the prospect of still being able to come to a clear and straight-forward understanding."

Regarding Poland, Hitler reiterated his views that "necessity of a free access to the sea for the Polish state cannot be ignored."

He further declared that nations which, like Poland and Germany, were "condemned to live side by side would be well advised not to make life still harder for each other artificially and unnecessarily."

Poland, Hitler said, "has rejected my offer and has only declared that it is prepared to negotiate concerning the question of a substitute for the commissioners of the League of Nations and to consider facilities for the transit traffic through the corridor."

which Marshal Pilsudski and I at one time concluded as having been unilaterally infringed by Poland and thereby no longer in existence."

"I have sent a communication to this effect to the Polish government."

Neither British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson nor French Ambassador Robert Coulondre, both of whom returned to Berlin only this week after absences of more than a month following German absorption of Czechoslovak territory—were present at the momentous session.

Sir George Ogilvie-Forbes, chargé d'affaires of the British embassy, represented Britain but no Frenchman or Pole was noted in the diplomatic circle.

Acting Charge d'Affaires Raymond Geist and Donald Heath represented the United States.

Further developing his attitude toward Britain, Hitler said:

"If England perchance thinks she may look upon Germany as a vassal state then our love and friendly feelings have indeed been wasted on England."

No Feeling of Inferiority

"Our self-esteem is just as great as that of an Englishman for England. We Germans do not feel in the least inferior to the British nation."

In further explanation of his denouncing the Anglo-German naval accord Hitler said he had "heard the United States itself and the other states of the American continent."

"Under the circumstances," the Fuehrer said, "I consider it a matter of course that we no longer wish or expect him (British Prime Minister Chamberlain) or the British nation to bear the burden of a situation which is only conceivable in an atmosphere of mutual confidence."

Without naming Rumania but obviously referring to her, Hitler declared that "Germany is determined not to allow certain economically important markets to be stolen from her by terrorist intervention or threats."

"How often," he asked, "do we have the pleasure of reading the amateurish economic articles of our democratic newspapers that close relations with a country, makes that country dependent upon her? This is sheer hair-raising Jewish nonsense."

This apparently referred also to Britain which has guaranteed Rumanian independence.

In his direct replies to the points of Roosevelt's message, Hitler did not dispute many of the 31 nations enumerated by the president replied to the German questionnaire asking them if they felt themselves threatened.

In All Cases Negative

He merely said "the reply was in all cases negative, in some instances strongly so."

"I could not cause inquiries to be made of certain of the states and nations mentioned because they themselves, as for example Syria, are at present not in possession of their freedom but are occupied and consequently deprived of their rights by the military agents of democratic states," he declared.

"I have just read a speech delivered by Mr. De Valera (Irish Prime Minister Eamon De Valera) in which, strangely enough, and contrary to Mr. Roosevelt's opinion he does not charge Germany with oppressing Ireland but reproaches England with subjecting Ireland to continuous aggression at her hand."

With bitter sarcasm he added, "with all due respect to Mr. Roosevelt's insight into the needs and cares of other countries, it may nevertheless be assumed that the Irish Taoiseach (prime minister) will be more familiar with the dangers which threaten his country than the president of the United States."

Hitler also charged Roosevelt with failing to notice "that Palestine is at present occupied not by German troops but by the English and that the country *** is suffering the cruellest maltreatment for the benefit of interlopers."

Counters Arms Proposal

Roosevelt's suggestion that disarmament or limitation of armaments be discussed at a world conference was countered by Hitler's representation of an imposing array of statistics showing what Germany did between 1919 and 1923 to get rid of her guns.

Nevertheless, the Fuehrer expressed his willingness to join in disarmament discussions provided "Mr. Roosevelt, you do not appeal first to me and Germany but rather to the others; I have a long line of practical experience behind me and shall remain skeptically inclined until reality has taught me to know better."

To Roosevelt's proposal for discussion looking toward improvement of international trade, Hitler replied in part:

Hitler's derision of international conferences was epitomized in the following:

"In almost twenty years of the activity of the greatest conference in the world, namely the League of Nations, it has proved impossible to solve one single, decisive, international problem."

Most American history, Hitler charged, was not made at conferences.

"The freedom of North America was not achieved at the conference table any more than the conflict between the north and south was decided there," he said.

Never Defenseless

Germany never will enter a conference defenseless, Hitler said, and confirmed his decision by this solemn oath:

"I can assure you, Mr. Roosevelt, that I am steadfastly determined to see to it that *** at all times and for ever, every German negotiator should and shall have behind him the united strength of the German nation, so help me God."

To Roosevelt's request to Germany and Italy for a statement of their foreign policy, Hitler replied: "We, on our side, might with the same right address to the President of the American republic the question as to what aims the American foreign policy has in view and on what intention this policy is based—in the case of the Central and South American States for instance."

This counter question was purely rhetorical, however, for Hitler added sarcastically, "I obviously would never presume to address such a request to the President of the United States because I assume that he would probably rightly consider such a presumption tactless."

Hitler appealed to Roosevelt to redeem the promises of President Wilson on the basis of which "Germany once laid down her arms."

"I am thinking less," the Fuehrer said, "of the innumerable millions extorted from Germany as so-called reparations than of the territories stolen from Germany."

Lists Losses

"In and outside Europe Germany lost approximately 3,000,000 square kilometers (1,158,000 square miles) of territory and that in spite of the fact that the whole German colonial empire, in contrast to the colonies of other nations, was not acquired by way of war but solely through treaties or purchase."

"President Wilson solemnly pledged his word that German colonial claims, like all others, would receive the same just examination."

"Instead of this the German possessions were given to nations who have always had the largest colonial empire."

Hitler contended that Nazi Germany never acted contrary to binding declarations made to other states and cited the Scandinavian states as proof of this assertion.

"I have given binding declarations to a large number of states. None of these states can complain that even a trace of a demand contrary thereto has ever been made to them by Germany."

"None of the Scandinavian statesmen, for example, can contend that a request ever has been put to them by the German government or by German public opinion which was incompatible with the sovereignty and integrity of their state."

The Fuehrer said he was "pleased" at the desire for absolute mutuality on the part of The Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland and Denmark.

Contrasts Achievement

With an undertone of irony he said: "Mr. Roosevelt, I fully understand that the vastness of your nation and the amount of wealth in your country allow you to feel responsible for the history of the whole world, for the fate of all nations. I sir, am placed in a much more modest and smaller sphere..."

"As a precaution against the threat of another war, I have not only united the German peoples politically but have also rearmament; I have also endeavored to destroy sheet by sheet that treaty which in its 48th article contains the vilest oppression which people and human beings have ever been expected to put up with..."

"Mr. Roosevelt, I have endeavored to attain all this without spilling blood and without bringing to my people and consequently to others the misery of war."

"I, who 21 years ago was an unknown worker and soldier of my people, have attained this, Mr. Roosevelt, by my own energy and, therefore, in the face of history, claim a place among the most men who have done the utmost which can be fairly and justly demanded from a single individual."

Much Easier Task

"You, Mr. Roosevelt, have a much easier task in comparison... From the very outset you stepped to the head of one of the largest, wealthiest states in the world..."

"Although the population of your country is scarcely one third greater than that of greater Germany you possess more than fifteen times as much living space."

"Conditions prevailing in your country are on such a large scale that you can find time and leisure to give your attentions to universal problems. Consequently, the world is undoubtedly so small for you that you, perhaps, believe that your intervention and action can be effective everywhere."

Before he directly answered President Roosevelt Hitler devoted considerable time to justifying Germany's action in dismembering the Czechoslovak state. The arguments, however, merely reiterated what Hitler and Nazi commentators have been saying ever since Bohemia and Moravia became a German protectorate and Slovakia, a vassal of greater Germany.

Sieg Heil!

Goering in closing the session addressed Hitler:

"My Fuehrer! You said you wanted the Reichstag to give its answer to Roosevelt's message. 'My Fuehrer! Whatever you say and do, our confidence and that of our people is unlimited. Sieg Heil! (Hail victory).'"

Goering declared the Reichstag session closed at 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. E. S. T.) Hitler left amidst the thunderous heils of the deputies.

The Fuehrer had clung faithfully to his prepared manuscript, air-mailed copies of which were laid down in translation in all the principal news centers of Europe.

Stocks Continued Gains Thursday

Stock prices continued their improvement Thursday and for the third day gains were shown, although volume remained low. A total of 540,000 shares changing hands. The market was strongest toward the close and finished at the best level of the day. Dow-Jones industrial average showed a gain of 1.22 points, to 129.78. Rails were up 0.25 point, to 26.03, and utilities advanced 0.19 point, to 22.24.

The bond market was cautious, with corporate bond volume small since last September; foreign issues were heavy. There was a steady undertone to the commodity market, with the futures index again showing a gain. Cotton closed off two to nine points, but wheat futures were up a half to one cent higher at Chicago, to the highest levels since January 26. World sugar contracts went to 1.49 cents a pound, highest since January, 1937.

There was recession in the London market following Chamberlain's speech Wednesday and heavy industry shares were under pressure on announcement of impending legislation which would limit armament profits. The Amsterdam Bourse was moderately firm and prices closed at the day's best. There was a general advance in prices on the Berlin Bourse.

Department of commerce reports show that factory sales of cars and trucks in the United States and Canada for the three months ended March 31, totaled 1,055,578, an increase of 38 per cent over the first quarter of 1938. March sales established a new peak for the year.

Ford plants will begin manufacture of a new tractor plough which Henry Ford believes will revolutionize farming on mass production basis. It incorporates a new principle, weighs 1,700 pounds, has four wheels and is operated by a four cylinder motor. It is said that all plans for the three-wheel tractor Ford was on the verge of producing last year have been discarded.

Bethlehem's showing for the quarter was comparatively the best of any reported for the industry.

Net for the three months ended March 31 was $11,638,290, equal to $2.67 on common and compares with net of $2,109,969, or 48 cents a share in the first quarter of 1938. ### New York, April 28 (AP)—Stocks retreated in today's market, after an early advance following Hitler's speech to the Reichstag which was considered less belligerent than had been expected.

Gains, running to a point or so at the start, were converted into losses of 1 to 3 near the final hour. Opening dealings, much more active than recently, slowed to a crawl after noon. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 900,000 shares.

Brokers seemed a bit mystified at the timidity of buyers inasmuch as Wall Street, generally, expressed gratification over the relatively moderate address of the Nazi chieftain which, it was thought, should ease European war tension, at least for the time being.

In addition, business news took on a slightly brighter hue, and the first quarter earnings statements of Chrysler and Bethlehem, coming after yesterday's close, served to bolster sentiment to some degree. At that, continuance of the soft coal tie-up was seen as a damper for steel and other producers confronted with dwindling fuel supplies.

Bonds were selectively improved, but commodities shifted over an uneven route.

HIZZONER TALKS—THE OTHERS LISTEN

President Offers New Relief Bid, Asks $1,723,000,000
Roosevelt's Message Reminds Congress That Sum Less by Third of This Year's Allotment
Sees Better Days

Chief Executive Says Nation Justified in Expecting Better Things
Washington, April 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress yesterday for a relief appropriation of $1,723,000,000 for the 12 months period beginning next January 1. The Works Progress Administration would receive $1,477,000,000.

In a message saying that substantial gains were being made in the drive to reduce unemployment, Eczema Itching
Here's Quick Ease and Comfort
Go to any first-class drug store today and get an original bottle of clean, powerful, penetrating, soothing Lincalol and apply a few drops over the affected area.

Mr. Roosevelt said his recommended figure for the next fiscal year represented a reduction of one-third below the approximately $2,550,000,000 he said was appropriated for the current year.
Would Employ 2 Millions
He said $1,447,000,000 would permit employment of "slightly more than an average of 2,000,000" during the next year.

Against Changes
The President came out against any major changes in the Works Progress Administration set-up, other than those administrative revisions which he outlined in his "reorganization plan number one" submitted to Congress earlier this week.

Important Economies
"Organizational changes which I expect to be made under the authority granted by the recent reorganization act will, I anticipate, make possible important economies resulting from the coordination of the operations of various federal agencies which are engaged in carrying out projects."

Many Disadvantages
"I believe," Mr. Roosevelt told Congress, "that such a system (of grants) has many disadvantages as there are local political units in the nation."

The chief executive expressed the hope that the investigation of WPA now being conducted by a House committee "will be guided along constructive lines, and if this is done I feel sure that its outcome will be to demonstrate the wisdom of the measures which have been adopted to meet the needs of the unemployed."

Regarding distribution of WPA funds Mr. Roosevelt said: "Any formula that may be devised for this purpose and written into legislation should take in account not only the factor of population, but also the constantly changing economic and unemployment conditions in various sections of the country.

On Basis of Jobs
"Allocation should be made on the basis of jobs to be provided and not on the local basis of funds to be distributed. Furthermore, the formula should not be too rigid and should permit a substantial amount of administrative discretion in order to provide special situations and relief crises."

NYA Request
In the same message, the President requested an appropriation of $123,000,000 for the next fiscal year for the National Youth Administration and an appropriation of $123,000,000 for the Farm Security Administration. He asked that unexpended funds remaining to these agencies be carried over into the next year.

He recommended appropriation of $1,350,000 for the Indian service for continuing Indian rehabilitation. In addition, the President asked $25,650,000 for administrative expenses of several government agencies in connection with carrying out the relief program.

This would be divided as follows: Civil Aeronautics Authority $250,000, general accounting office $5,225,000, treasury department $14,925,000 and U. S. Employees Compensation Commission $5,250,000. He also recommended appropriations of $1,500,000 for the National Emergency Council, $990,000 for the national resources committee, and $10,000,000 for the Puerto Rico reconstruction administration.

"It may be of interest to the Congress," the President said, "to know that through the department of state we have received many assertions that there are few unemployed persons in the nations which have accepted totalitarian forms of government."

"In these nations private employment takes care of a smaller proportion of their employable citizens than private employment does in the United States. This means that government employment is responsible for the care of a larger portion of the employable population than in this country—creating in fact a government employment system based in great part on the manufacture of munitions, which costs far more than our system."

Far Cheaper
"The principal difference is that in the nations to which I refer, this employment is called employment, whereas in the United States it is called relief."

"Actually, our system of work relief is relatively far cheaper than the other method and as at present constituted does take care of the great majority of the needy unemployed who are able to work."

ARMY FINDS ITS TACTICS ARE SAME AS IN 35 B. C.
Belgrade, (AP)—Infantry tactics haven't changed in 2,000 years, a Yugoslav general observed after maneuvers in Croatia, in the course of which soldiers stumbled into a rich archaeological treasure.

A modern sham battle was fought in precisely the same way the Romans battled the warlike Illyrians in 35 B. C.

The modern Yugoslav maneuver problem was the defense of Croatia from an army advancing northeast from the Adriatic sea. The defending general studied the topography carefully and decided the best place to make a stand was at the village of Metlike on the Kupa river. His soldiers dug in, and were surprised to encounter the remains of ancient fortifications.

Scientists now have identified these fortifications as defenses built by the ancient Illyrians, forefathers of the modern Albanians, to fight the legions of Emperor Augustus.

Emmett Connors of 19 Gard street, Bronxville, pleaded guilty to driving an automobile while intoxicated when he was arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court today, and was fined $50 and his driver's license revoked.

Connors was arrested at 10:45 o'clock Thursday night when his car crashed into the parked automobile of Michael Brown, which was parked in front of the K. of C. building on Broadway, and then ran up over the sidewalk.

The arrest was made by Officers Harry Martin and Fallon.

Fite Says Budget Passage Certain, Defends Slashes

Emerson D. Fite, state assemblyman from Poughkeepsie, a member of the Vassar College faculty and member of the Assembly education committee, speaking before the Fifth District Conference of the New York State School Boards Association, Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel, predicted that the state legislature would without doubt pass the Republican-proposed "lump sum budget" which will cut some $30,000,000 from Governor Lehman's proposed state budget.

This cut will include a 10 per cent reduction in the amount of available state aid for schools.

Assemblyman Fite not only declared the present cut would be effective but he predicted that there would be a further cut next year.

Defends Cut

Defending the cut in the budget, he disagreed with the attitude of many that the school budget must not be touched.

Modern schools are "so embellished they aren't practical," he said, and blamed the government for its contribution of 45 per cent of the cost of school building construction, saying that with this federal aid there had been too much of a temptation to "build palaces." He scored the attitude of many communities in erecting magnificent "palaces" for school purposes and said that giving tax sales indicated the inability of at least some to meet the burden. He cited these magnificent "palaces" on one hand and "half starved and ill-clothed" children in attendance. Living for four years in these magnificent buildings he said these same children would later have to return to their poor homes.

Change in Policy

Assemblyman Fite said there would be a "change in the financial policy of the State of New York if the present party stays in power although the change would not be in the governor's chair."

He predicted that a committee would be appointed to study the question of state aid for schools and he said that if such an investigation were made there would be a further cut in appropriations.

The talk by Dr. Fite was delivered at the dinner meeting of the association at the Governor Clinton Hotel following the afternoon business session which was held at the high school. Speaking on "Directives of Education Which Lead Toward a Realization of American Democracy," he said the purpose of education is to teach the pupils how to think; not what democracy is. The subject matter taught is not as important as the "training of a better brain." A student who has been schooled in "mental gymnastics" is better able to lead a life of intelligent productivity, he said.

Intellectually Alert

One of the purposes of education is to make our boys and girls intellectually alert. The purpose of education is not democracy, he said, but this can be picked up on the way. "If teachers can teach so that the pupils are provoked to independent and original thinking, then I say, you have benefited democracy in the best way," he continued.

The talk by Mr. Fite was in effect an answer to a statement made at the afternoon session by Harold L. Fuess of Waterville Central Board and a past president of the association who had spoken on "A Layman's Evaluation of the Regents' Inquiry Report." Mr. Fuess declared the cut in the state fund would cut state aid to districts and would of necessity mean a cut in extra-curricular activities. He said he believed that the ones to suffer would be the children. A cut in state aid would mean one of two things, an increase in our district taxes or some curtailment in school work.

In his talk Mr. Fite called attention to the magnificent school buildings which had been erected with federal aid and he asked the question how could many communities support and maintain these splendid structures.

Davis Presides

The afternoon session at the high school opened at 2 o'clock with George M. Davis, Jr., of New Rochelle, chairman of District 5, presiding. There was registration of delegates from Ulster, Orange, Dutchess, Rockland, Sullivan and Putnam counties followed by an inspection of the high school buildings with students acting as guides. During the reception the high school band gave a program in the auditorium which evoked much favorable comment from the delegates on the splendid performance.

President Alfred Schmid of the Kingston Board of Education welcomed the visitors and the high spots of the Kingston school system were outlined by Superintendent B. C. Van Ingen.

W. A. Clifford, executive secretary of the association, spoke on "Educational Legislation for 1939" followed by a talk on "Administration and Supervision of School Health Service" by Cyrus H. Maxwell, chief of the Bureau of Health Service of the State Education Department.

President Melvin R. Horton of Peekskill board of education spoke on "State Aid" in which he touched on full appropriation, percentage cut, pegging, double aid, earlier payment and kindergarten aid.

At an open forum discussions under leaders was held on various topics. Enos Lee of Yorktown Heights Central Board and a past president of the Association of Central Rural School District Boards, led a talk on "Permissive vs. Mandatory Centralization." Harold L. Fuess of Waterville led the discussion on "A Layman's Evaluation of the Regents' Inquiry Report." George A. Schiavone of Poughkeepsie, superintendent of School District No. 1, President Schmid of the Kingston Board of Education, spoke of the worth-while benefits of the sessions and said these meetings were of great value in that an exchange of ideas and a discussion of school problems could be freely had. He welcomed the delegates and invited them to come again. There were also remarks by other members and the officials of the association.

Soviet Airplane Nears Greenland

Moscow, April 28. (AP)—Brigadier General Vladimir Kokkinaki reported at 6:30 p. m. tonight (10:30 a. m., E.S.T.) that his big red monoplane was approaching the coast of Greenland, more than halfway to the goal of his bold attempt to fly nonstop from Moscow to New York.

The Soviet airman, who passed over the Scandinavian countries and Iceland after hopping from Moscow early today, planned to turn southwest from Greenland, skirt Labrador and fly down the coast to New York.

He reported his plane was functioning smoothly and was well up to schedule.

At 4:48 p. m. (8:48 a. m., E.S.T.) Kokkinaki radioed that he had passed Reykjavik, Iceland, and all was well.

Zoning Petition Meets Opposition

There was opposition to the petition of Mrs. Herman Young of 496-500 Albany avenue requesting that the property be included in the business instead of the residential zone to permit her to erect a three car garage on her property, when the matter came up for a public hearing before the laws and rules committee of the common council Thursday evening at the city hall.

Attorney Joseph Avis appeared for Paul Cicalis, of 502-504 Albany avenue, and objected to the granting of the petition on the ground that it would depreciate the value of his property.

John W. Martin of 488 Albany avenue and Harry Daigle of 495 Albany avenue, who had signed the Young petition, were also at the hearing and registered objections to the granting of the petition.

Mr. Martin claimed that when he signed the petition he had been told it was to be an addition to the present garage, while Mr. Daigle said he opposed the erection of a warehouse in the front of the property.

Mrs. Young, who appeared in her own behalf, said the garage was to be built for the storage of trucks which were now parked in the yard.

Frank Moon, of 496 Albany avenue, said that the zoning change would not affect that portion of Albany avenue as already there were a number of gas stations, garages and a bowling alley in that section.

The committee reserved decision and will later submit a report to the council.

Gardner, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer; Mason M. Bigelow, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer; Samuel C. Hubbard, comptroller.

The following were designated as members of the executive committee: Ernest R. Acker, Peter Cantline, Edward E. Perkins and John Wilkie.

Keator, president of the Ulster-Greene Council, and George B. Matthews, chairman of the Kingston District, will present to the troop their charter for the coming year and the commissions for the leaders.

Charles E. Davis, new scoutmaster of the troop, has planned an interesting evening program for the parents and friends of the scouts and the boys cordially invite them to attend this party, which starts at 8 o'clock.

Church Leaders Hold Conference

world Presbyterian or yours to make it Methodist," said Mr. Buttrick, pastor of Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York.

"To Make World Christian" "Our united job under God is to make the world Christian." "The disunity of Protestantism seems daily to become more grievous. Why should any of us deny ourselves the Episcopal book of prayer so full of star fire, or the searchings of a Quaker silence, or the free worship of the Presbyterians?"

"It is to be hoped that a united Methodistism may be a challenge to American Christendom," Dr. Lee told the congregation.

"It may be that even the regional organization of the Methodist Church will point the way for the preservation of real diversity in a vital unity."

The first step toward actual physical union of the Methodists was taken last night when the Methodist Protestant branch elected two bishops—the first this group has had in 111 years.

They are Dr. James H. Straughn, Baltimore, and Dr. John Calvin Broomfield, Fairmont, W. Va.

Michael School Students Choose List of Officers

Mark Connelly, a member of the civics class in the Myron J. Michael School, was elected student mayor after a whirlwind campaign featuring political rallies, posters and slogans when the members of the civics classes in the Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael School went to the polls on Tuesday.

The election was held preparatory to holding Student Government Day in Kingston when the students will take charge of the city's affairs for a day. The dates tentatively fixed are Monday and Tuesday, May 8 and 9, with the city officials installed in ceremonies in the council chambers in the city hall on Monday evening, preparatory to taking over the city's government Tuesday.

Robert Friedman was elected alderman-at-large and Miss Janet Noble, city judge. The newly elected mayor and city judge are representatives of the Green party, while the alderman-at-large is a member of the White party. All three are students in the Michael school.

The election was a three-cornered battle with a new party, called the Red, White and Blue, contesting the election with the two established parties.

To support the student mayor, the students elected a common council with the Green party in the majority. Those elected to the council are: William Whitney, David Lane, Ruth Smith, Mary Simon of the White party, and Robert Pemberton, George Fowler, Isabelle Wood, Clayton Stalter, Matilda Bowers, John Sanglin, Florence Clark, Stanley London and Marilyn Beichert, representing the Green party.

Plans are being made to hold the inaugural ceremony and student government day early in May. The new student mayor is working on his appointments which he hopes to announce shortly.

Previous to the election the students spent time at the city hall studying under the supervision of the city officials. They then held caucuses, conventions and a primary to nominate the various candidates.

A great deal of interest has been shown by the students in this method of becoming familiar with the workings of their local government.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

Before it is completed this major league baseball campaign may be remarkable for many things, but right now it is distinguished for the number and length of its extra-inning games.

In 11 days, during which many contests were rained out, there have been nine marathon matches. This is approximately double the number of extra-inning ventures over any similar period in recent years.

The list was padded yesterday by the 13-inning duel the Chicago White Sox claimed from the Detroit Tigers, and the 11-inning thriller the St. Louis Cardinals took from Pittsburgh's hapless Pirates.

It was the third meeting of the two American League clubs this season and the second time they have worked overtime. One of the two games the Sox played at Detroit went 14 innings with the Tigers finally winning on Hank Greenberg's first home run of the year.

The White Sox got revenge yesterday with Hank Steinbarger pinch-hitting Mike Kreevich home in the 13th for a 2-1 victory. Kreevich singled four times and scored Chicago's other run.

Pittsburgh's seventh consecutive loss in the other extra-chapter story was a bitter dose because the Pirates led most of the way and seemed victory-bound when Gus Suhr hit a home run in the 11th. But Don Padgett singled in a tying run and the usually steady Pop Young fumbled a grounder which let Padgett also score and win 6-5 for the Cardinals.

The Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds were headed for a long bout until the Reds burst out with eight runs in their half of the eighth to win 11-3. Big Ival Goodman, who had homered with one on in the first, led the eighth inning uprising with a single followed by a triple with the bases full.

The Boston Bees and Philadelphia Phillies also decided their melee in the eighth as Al Simmons hit for the circuit and Boston's margin in a 5-4 triumph.

On the other hand the Washington Senators had no trouble subduing the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-3, on the nine-hit knuckleball pitching of Dutch Leonard, who has accounted for two of the Nationals' three victories to date.

The St. Louis Browns eased past the Cleveland Indians, 4-2, with Johnny Marcum having a shutout until the ninth when Jeff Heath hit a home run with one on for the Tribe.

Bad weather in the east caused postponement of the games scheduled between New York and Brooklyn in the senior circuit and the Yankees and Boston in the American League.

Back to the Minor Leagues (As Managers)

By The AP Feature Service

When their arms go dead or their legs slow up, major-league stars often turn to managerial jobs in the minors. Every season finds some former Big Show ace starting anew in the lower leagues. Here are four men who became "minor managers" in 1939.

After 16 years in the National League, Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler returned from the Brooklyn outfield to manage Chattanooga of the Southern Association.

George William (Mule) Haas, outfielder who ended 11 years in the big leagues last season with the A's, is the new Oklahoma City manager.

Butleigh Gimes took over the Montreal club of the International loop after a two-year stretch as pilot of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

William Watson Clark, the old National League finger for the Giants and Dodgers, returned to baseball as Redville, N. C., skipper in the Bi-State League.

Kelly, Coughlin, Banks, Geoghan Returned to Posts

Umpires and Groundkeeper to Be Named Monday—Caseys Will Be Sixth Team

President Joe Kelly was re-elected to guide the Kingston City Baseball League through the 1939 season. Kelly, Coughlin, Banks, and Geoghan were returned to their posts as vice president, secretary, treasurer, and groundkeeper, respectively. The Casey team will be the sixth team in the league.

Andy Gilday, spokesman for the Knights of Columbus, gave definite assurance that the Casey team would be in the twilight loop once again this summer. With the Casey team in the fold, the Knights are in the twilight loop. Gilday, communicating with Secretary Jim Geoghan, stated that the Knights were rounding up a collection of talent under the guidance of Paul Joyce and in all probability would place a team on the field.

The Casey team, always big favorites with two-loop fans, would balance a strong circuit composed of Grunewalds, Jones Dairy, Clossi A. C., Boiceville Rangers and the Kingston Independents for a six-team roster. Last year's Ryan-Casey rivalry was one of the highlights of a hotly-contested campaign and the Knights would be welcome additions to the league this season.

Deadline Monday

Next Monday's meeting is the deadline for the posting of the customary entry fee and the submission of player's rosters by the managers. The City League managers will convene for the final business session at 7:30 and the grand finale to the pre-game sessions will be staged. All representatives of teams must be present at this meeting.

Selection of two umpires was postponed last night pending decision of the Knights of Columbus entry as was the balloting for the groundkeeper's position. Dick Dulin, Bill "Pie" Murphy and Bill Scully are competing for the balls and strikes post while Patsy DeCicco and Moe Lynch are in the running for the caretaker's duties. The defeated candidate in both positions will automatically become the alternate during the first half slate of games.

Secretary Geoghan distributed tentative slate of twilight battles to managers for approval pending Monday night's meeting. Much discussion prevailed as to the awarding of trophies for individual leadership in batting averages, most home runs, etc., and a committee will be appointed Monday to canvass for prizes.

Election of umpires, groundkeeper, posting of team rosters, reading of by-laws and filing of entry fees are listed for the City League's next confab, Monday evening at 7:30.

Kingston High School Meets Ellenville Nine Here Saturday Afternoon

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Kingston High will meet Ellenville as the DUSO League gets under way at the Athletic Field.

Handicapped somewhat by the weather man this year, Coach Cliff Miller of the Maroon and White nine will have his fingers crossed until he sees his team in action for at least three or four frames. Miller will open the fray by sending Hank Tiano, young right-hander against the mountaineers in an attempt to jump the gate in the first game.

Hit hard by graduation last June, the Millermen will have a lot of new faces in the starter tomorrow. The infield, consisting of Al Decker, George Schrick, Tony Berinato and Jimmy Ashdown, is practically new except for Ashdown. In the outfield Harry McKie, Ken Hopper and today Johnny Gerardi or Henry Stoll will get the nod. Not one of these men was around for varsity service last year.

Hank Tiano, a pitching star last year in a few games, will have his big opportunity to show his worth. Given help by his mates afield and at the plate, Tiano should go the route if he is allowed. Bill Windburn will be around to do relief duty.

Last year the Millermen copped the flag when they defeated Ellenville 7 to 1 behind the neat batting of George Culch. As to who will make up the mountaineers' roster tomorrow at the start is still a big question.

All of Kingston's home games will be played as usual at the Athletic Field on Smith avenue.

Saturday's Schedule

Ellenville at Kingston.
Port Jervis at Newburgh.
Saugerties vs. Middletown.

Sportsmen Enjoy Their Movie, Lanny Ross Plans Radio Show

An audience of about 100 members and friends were in attendance at the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association held Thursday evening in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium on Broadway.

When a number of matters of interest to sportsmen were taken up, President Nelson M. Snyder presided, and at the close of the meeting a reel of movies starring Tony Accetta, champion pugilist, was shown.

The association voted to hold a clam bake again this year, and William Henniger, George Swart, Howard Myer, Leroy Lyke, J. Kolts and Arthur Frohlich were named a committee to make arrangements.

Attention was called to the prizes being offered for the biggest trout caught each month. A merchandise prize of $5 value is given each month for the biggest fish entered. These prizes are being offered by Jack Foye.

A new club is being formed at Ulster Park, and as this was part of the territory allotted to the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association for stocking it was agreed that the association should make an effort to form a working agreement with the new club, similar to that under which it is now working with the Lake

Katrine Club.

As the committee at Ulster Park were working that night on a constitution and by-laws for the proposed new club nothing definite could be done and very little information given. It was agreed, however, to offer the sponsors of the new club any aid or assistance they might need or desire in getting started, and to promote a feeling of good fellowship between the clubs.

The subject of putting on a radio show sponsored jointly by the Phoenixia Fish and Game Association and the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association was discussed, and a committee named to meet with representatives of the Phoenixia club.

"Lanny" Ross, one of radio's popular stars, would have charge of the show and be one of the principals in it. "Lanny" does a lot of fishing in Ulster county and Phoenixia is one of his favorite stopping places. He has shown his appreciation of the efforts of the local association in providing good fishing has offered to put on the show to raise funds to procure fish for stocking the streams in this vicinity.

Dutch Williams and Guy Gallucci In Heavy Match

Raigins-Leger Meet in the Other Pairing on Top of Boxing Card

Tonight the municipal auditorium is expected to be packed with fans who like action. The bill of fistic attractions features all sluggers instead of the so-called "fancy fighters" and patrons of fisticana have been talking favorably about the card topped by Dutch Williams and Guy Gallucci, two heavyweight belters.

Williams got up off the floor to knock out Gallucci a couple of weeks ago, and tonight the Schenectady boy hopes to get even. "That was a lucky punch," Guy said as he agreed on the return match with the Newburgh wallop. Williams hopes to repeat tonight. Prior to meeting the Hilly City Dutchman, Gallucci had been bowling over opponents himself via the knockout route.

In the other top bout, Charlie Raigins, Saugerties featherweight, boxing for the first time at home since returning from the national tournament at San Francisco, will meet Cliff Leger, Mohawk Indian, who is anxious to square things with the Honeyboy. Raigins trimmed the chief some time ago, but since then Leger took a rest and is now at his peak according to reports from his camp.

Another bout that has been creating a lot of comment among the boxing fans is the five rounder between Jess Caprotti, local lightweight, and Roy Collier of Albany. Both have been out of actual competition for several months, and each hopes to win in his comeback tonight. Caprotti has been working out at the Y. M. C. A. and is said to be ready for a strenuous battle.

The complete card is as follows: Guy Gallucci, Schenectady, vs. Dutch Williams, Newburgh, heavyweights.
Charlie Raigins, Saugerties, vs. Cliff Leger, Schenectady, featherweights.
Buddy Bookman, Hurleyville, vs. Hugo DuBaldi, Newburgh, middleweight.

KELLY'S CORNER • By JOE KELLY

Tiano Popular With the Ladies—400 Pounder Uses 2 Seats

The City Baseball League is looking for donors of prizes. . . . There's not a fancy fighter on the card at the auditorium tonight, but we'll go out on the limb to say that the bill of scraps probably will make a bigger hit with the fans who seem to delight in those real honest to goodness slugfests.

Bridgeport, Conn., has 130 softball teams. . . . Joe McCarthy, who was an engaged fellow himself once, is worrying about Joe DiMaggio. . . . He's afraid Joe might change his mind and decide to marry in mid-season. . . . Cliff Melton can't understand why his comeback is flopping. . . . He thinks he has better stuff than ever. . . . Broadway odds today made Johnstown the derby favorite at 5-2. . . . Willie London, 400 pound fight fan from Washington, has ordered two seats for the Louis vs. Galento fight. . . . He'll use both of them. . . . Larry MacPhail and his Dodgers stand for a lot of kidding, but he burns up when somebody calls the club the "Larry Phallures". . . . The Frank & Charles Barbers are probably putting on a lot more, rather today, thinking that they're still rolling against the Century Cementers for the Recreation League title. . . . They soaped them over for three straight to cop the championship.

Jess Caprotti, Kingston, vs. Roy Collier, Albany, lightweight.
Paul Beck, Poughkeepsie, vs. Alex Gibbons, Albany, middleweight.
Jackie Hogan, Kingston, vs. Tony Garlex, Poughkeepsie, heavyweight.
Frankie Albright, Kingston, vs. Vic Santore, Schenectady, featherweight.
Starting time is 9 o'clock.

Crosley Has New Car

Indianapolis, April 28 (AP).—Powel, Crosley, Jr., Cincinnati radio and refrigerator manufacturer, introduced to the motor industry today a new low-priced two cylinder automobile designed to get a top speed of 50 miles an hour and run 50 miles on a gallon of gasoline. The car was christened with a bottle of gasoline and made its first run on the Indianapolis speedway before some 200 Crosley wholesalers and automotive leaders. It is to be built in two-passenger convertible coupes, priced at $325, and four-passenger convertible sedans at $350.

Farms in the United States averaged $4,823 apiece in value in 1935 compared with $7,614 in 1930, a decline of 36.7 per cent.

The number of stock sheep in the North Atlantic states dropped from a peak of 9,627,000 in 1867 to 870,000 in 1939.

Barmanns Trim Baltz Quintet For National Title by 33-12

Barmanns are champions of the National division in the City Basketball League by virtue of their 33-12 victory over the Baltz quintet, Thursday night, at the municipal auditorium.

The chances of the Pajama makers faded in the first half which ended 13-2 in favor of the Brewers, who never did get started. Johnny Zeeh featured for the Barmanns with 14 points, two more than the entire Baltz team. Al Bruce made five for the losers.

300 Girl Reserves In Show Saturday

Three hundred Girl Reserves are busy making last minute preparations for their 13th annual Girl Reserve Show at the Municipal Auditorium Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

There is an additional interest in this year's show for when this miniature World Fair opens on the stage of the auditorium tomorrow, Mayor Heiselman will be on hand to receive the keys from the tiniest member of the Bluebird group as she climbs out of the model periscope.

One of the largest groups is the Bluebird Group. The scene is the garden of the fair, and opens as the Garden girls plant the seeds and water them. The sun comes up and then to the strains of Country Gardens the Flowers awaken. The Butterflies dance about the garden, the Black Eyed Susans dance, some little girls with parasols visit and admire the gardens, and a picket fence which has been standing so decorously in the background comes to life, dances to the front of the stage and when reversed, turns out to be a row of sun-flowers.

There will be two dances by Miss Edith Ellison, "The Blue Danube," and an "Italian Fiesta Dance." Jane Herdman and Verlonig, Jr., and Mrs. Walter T. Tremper, registration cards; Miss Jane Mausterstock, Miss Lucinda al groups, "Chet's Dance," which will be done by Gladys Avery, Joyce Emerick, Beth Winters, Rosella Mosher, and "The Umbrella Men" by Dolores Keise, Doris Keise and Dolores Gillan.

The part of the Goddess of Liberty will be taken by Anna Marie Manfro, and it is rumored that Ferdinand the Bull has been introduced to appear in a comedy number toward the end of the show.

Tickets are on sale at the Y. W. C. A. at the door for a very nominal sum.

Ribbons Dress Up the Valance

Charming are these gay chintz draperies—their graceful valance looped up with bright ribbons. And they're as easy to make as they're inexpensive!

For the side draperies, choose a figured chintz—for the valance, plain chintz. Stunning is an ivory pattern on a soft green ground combined with plain ivory chintz. Use ribbons of a darker green for valance and tie-backs.

How to make the smartly draped valance? Cut the fabric about twice as deep as you want the finished valance to be. Slant at each end and shape the lower edge in shallow scallops as in diagram A. Stitch up in soft folds, loop ribbons over stitches, according to diagram B. Top each ribbon loop with a perky bow.

Now tack the valance to a valance board—and it'll look trim as can be. Side curtains hang gracefully, too, if you make pinch pleats at the top, know such tricks as running a weighted tape through the bottom hem.

Other "professional" details? Our 32-page booklet gives step-by-step instructions, diagrams for many lovely drapery styles, valances, glass curtains. Suggests smart trimmings, fabrics, color schemes. Tips on cornices.

swer the message of President Roosevelt of April 15 proposing non-aggression pledges by Germany and Italy to 31 nations.

He arrived at Kroil Opera House, the meeting place, at noon and began speaking nine minutes later (6:09 a. m. E. S. T.).

Recites His Aims

He first called upon the Reichstag to ratify or reject his answer to the United States president and then launched into a recital of his aims in Europe.

"The first applause came when he said, 'I merely restored to the German people what others had broken by force.'

"I have not taken any step that violated foreign rights but have merely restored the rights violated 20 years ago."

"Providence has let me find the ways for liberating our people from the deepest misery without bloodshed and for leading them upward again," he declared.

Hitler gave specific assurance regarding the American continent.

"I should not like to let this opportunity pass without giving above all to the President of the United States an assurance regarding those territories which would after all give him the most cause for apprehension, namely the United States itself and the other states of the American continent."

"And I here solemnly declare that all the assertions which have been circulated in any way concerning an impending German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths, quite apart from the fact that such assertions, as far as the military possibilities are concerned could have their origin only in a stupid imagination."

Basis for Treaty Gone

Hitler declared that the basis for the naval treaty with Great Britain, limiting the Reich's navy to 35 per cent of the British, had been removed and that he had notified the British government to that effect.

"Since England today, both by the press and officially, upholds the view that Germany should be opposed under all circumstances and confirms this by the policy of encirclement known to us, the basis for the naval treaty has been removed."

"I have therefore resolved to send today a communication to this effect to the British government."

"This is not a matter of practical material importance to us — for I still hope that we shall be able to avoid an armaments race with England — but an action of self respect."

"Should the British government, however, wish to enter once more into negotiations with Germany on this problem no one would be happier than I at the prospect of still being able to come to a clear and straight-forward understanding."

Regarding Poland, Hitler reiterated his views that "necessity of a free access to the sea for the Polish state cannot be ignored."

He further declared that nations which, like Poland and Germany, were "condemned to live side by side would be well advised not to make life still harder for each other artificially and unnecessarily."

Poland, Hitler said, "has rejected my offer and has only declared that it is prepared to negotiate concerning the question of a substitute for the commissioners of the League of Nations and to consider facilities for the transit (traffic) through the corridor."

"I look upon the agreement which Marshal Pilsudski and I at one time concluded as having been unilaterally infringed by Poland and thereby no longer in existence."

"I have sent a communication to this effect to the Polish government."

The Polish German non-aggression agreement, for ten years, was concluded in January 1934.

Neither British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson nor French Ambassador Robert Coulondre, both of whom returned to Berlin only this week after absences of more than a month following German absorption of Czechoslovak territory, were present at the momentous session.

Sir George Ogilvie-Forbes, charge d'affaires of the British embassy, represented Britain but no Frenchman or Pole was noted in the diplomatic circle.

Acting Charge d'Affaires Raymond Geist and Donald Heath represented the United States.

Further developing his attitude toward Britain, Hitler said:

"If England perchance thinks she may look upon Germany as a vassal state, then let her love and friendly feelings have indeed been wasted on England."

No Feeling of Inferiority

"Our self-esteem is just as great as that of an Englishman for England. We Germans do not feel in the least inferior to the British nation."

In further explanation of his denouncing the Anglo-German naval accord Hitler said he had "heard the state of the British prime minister to the effect that he is not able to put any trust in German assurances."

"Under the circumstances," the Fuehrer said, "I consider it a matter of course that we no longer wish to accept an 'British Prime Minister's Chamberlain' for the British people to bear the burden of a situation which is only conceivable in an atmosphere of mutual confidence."

Without naming Rumania but obviously referring to her, Hitler declared that "Germany is determined not to allow certain economically important markets to be stolen from her by terrorist intervention or threats."

"How often," he asked, "do we have the pleasure of reading the amateurish economic articles of our democratic newspapers that Germany, because she maintains close relations with a country, makes that country dependent upon her? This is sheer hair-raising Jewish nonsense."

"This apparently referred also to Britain which has guaranteed Rumanian independence."

In his direct replies to the points of Roosevelt's message, Hitler did not disclose how many of the 31 nations enumerated by the president replied to the German questionnaire asking them if they felt themselves threatened.

In All Cases Negative

He merely said "The reply was in all cases negative, in some instances strongly so."

"I could not cause inquiries to be made of certain of the states and nations mentioned because they themselves, as for example Syria, are at present not in possession of their freedom but are occupied and consequently deprived of their rights by the military agents of democratic states," he declared.

Roosevelt's inclusion of Ireland in the list evoked this caustic rejoinder:

"I have just read a speech delivered by Mr. De Valera (Irish Prime Minister Eamon De Valera) in which, strangely enough, and contrary to Mr. Roosevelt's opinion he does not charge Germany with oppressing Ireland but reproaches England with subjecting Ireland to continuous aggression at her hand."

With bitter sarcasm he added, "With all due respect to Mr. Roosevelt's insight into the needs and cares of other countries, it may, nevertheless, be assumed that the Irish Taoiseach (prime minister) will be more familiar with the dangers which threaten his country than the president of the United States."

Hitler also charged Roosevelt with failing to notice "that Palestine is at present occupied not by German troops but by the English and that the country is suffering the cruellest maltreatment for the benefit of interlopers."

Counters Arms Proposal

Roosevelt's suggestion that disarmament or limitation of armaments be discussed at a world conference was countered by Hitler's representation of an imposing array of statistics showing what Germany did between 1919 and 1923 to get rid of her guns.

Nevertheless, the Fuehrer expressed his willingness to join in disarmament discussions provided "Mr. Roosevelt, you do not appeal first to me and Germany but rather to the others: I have a long line of practical experience behind me and shall remain skeptically inclined until reality has taught me to know better."

To Roosevelt's proposal for discussion looking toward improvement of international trade, Hitler replied in part:

Hitler's denunciation of international conferences was epitomized in the following:

"In almost twenty years of the activity of the greatest conference in the world, namely the League of Nations, it has proved impossible to solve one single, decisive, international problem."

Most American history, Hitler charged, was not made at conferences.

"The freedom of North America was not achieved at the conference table any more than the conflict between the north and south was decided there," he said.

Never Defenseless

Germany never will enter a conference defenseless, Hitler said, and confirmed his decision by this solemn oath:

"I can assure you, Mr. Roosevelt, that I am steadfastly determined to see to it that * * * at all times and for ever, every German negotiator should and shall have behind him the united strength of the German nation, so help me God."

To Roosevelt's request to Germany and Italy for a statement of their foreign policy, Hitler replied: "We, on our side, might with the same right address to the President of the American republic the question as to what aims the American foreign policy has in view and on what intention this policy is based—in the case of the Central and South American States for instance."

This counter question was purely rhetorical, however, for Hitler added sarcastically, "I obviously would never presume to address such a request to the President of the United States because I assume that he would probably rightly consider such a presumption tactless."

Hitler appealed to Roosevelt to redeem the promises of President Wilson on the basis of which "Germany once laid down her arms."

"I am thinking less," the Fuehrer said, "of the innumerable millions extorted from Germany as so-called reparations than of the territories stolen from Germany."

Lists Losses

"In and outside Europe Germany lost approximately 3,000,000 square kilometers (1,158,000 square miles) of territory and that in spite of the fact that the whole German colonial empire, in contrast to the colonies of other nations, was not acquired by way of war but solely through treaties or purchase."

"President Wilson solemnly pledged his word that German colonial claims, like all others, would receive the same just examination."

"Instead of this the German possessions were given to nations who have always had the largest colonial empire."

Hitler contended that Nazi Germany never acted contrary to binding declarations made to other states and cited the Scandinavian states as proof of this assertion.

"I have given binding declarations to a large number of states. None of these states can complain that even a trace of a demand contrary thereto has ever been made to them by Germany."

"None of the Scandinavian statesmen, for example, can contend that a request ever has been put to them by the German government or by German public opinion which was incompatible with the sovereignty and integrity of their state."

"The Fuehrer said he was 'pleased' at the desire for absolute mutuality on the part of the Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland and Denmark."

Contrasts Achievement

In a 10-minute apothecosis at the conclusion of his address, Hitler contrasted his achievements amidst many difficulties with the task of the President of the wealthiest nation in the world.

With an undertone of irony he said, "Mr. Roosevelt, I fully understand that the vastness of your nation and the amount of wealth in your country allow you to feel responsible for the history of the whole world, for the fate of all nations. I, sir, am placed in a much more modest and smaller sphere."

"As a precaution against the threat of another war, I have not only united the German peoples politically but have also rearmed them; I have also endeavored to destroy sheet by sheet that treaty which in its 48th article contains the vilest oppression which people and human beings have ever been expected to put up with."

"Mr. Roosevelt, I have endeavored to attain all this without spilling blood and without bringing to my people and consequently to others the misery of war."

"I, who 21 years ago was an unknown worker and soldier of my people, have attained this, Mr. Roosevelt, by my own energy and can therefore, in the face of history, claim a place among those men who have done the utmost which can be fairly and justly demanded from a single individual."

Much Easier Task

"You, Mr. Roosevelt, have a much easier task in comparison... From the very outset you stepped to the head of one of the largest, wealthiest states in the world..."

"Although the population of your country is scarcely one third greater than that of greater Germany you possess more than fifteen times as much living space."

"Conditions prevailing in your country are on such a large scale that you can find time and leisure to give your attentions to universal problems. Consequently, the world is undoubtedly so small for you that you, perhaps, believe that your intervention and action can be effective everywhere."

Beare

President Roosevelt Hitler devoted considerable time to justifying Germany's action in dismembering the Czechoslovak state. The arguments, however, merely reiterated what Hitler and Nazi commentators have been saying ever since Bohemia and Moravia became a German protectorate and Slovakia, a vassal of greater Germany.

Sieg Heil!

Goering in closing the session addressed Hitler:

"My Fuehrer! You said you wanted the Reichstag to give its answer to Roosevelt's message."

"My Fuehrer! Whatever you say and do, our confidence and that of our people is unlimited. Sieg heil! (Hail victory)."
